GRAF ZEPPELIN STARTS EIGHTH OVERSEAS TRIP

22 Are Passengers on Big Dirigible as She Passes New York.

HOP-OFF UNEVENTFUL IN BRIGHT MOONLIGHT

Scarce Half Hundred Men Required to Get Ship Out of Hangar.

REPAIRS COMPLETED ON BROKEN GONDOLA

Provisioning Since Arrival Has Cost $8,000; Store of Liquors Swelled.

New York, June 2 (A.P.).—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, en route from Lakehurst, N. J., to Europe, passed over New York City at 9:55 o'clock (E. S. T.) tonight. The giant ship approached Manhattan at its lower tip—the Battery—proceeded majestically up the island with all her lights glowing, then turned about and sailed down the island again.

The flight over the city was a treat for thousands of people who leaned from windows and ran into the streets to watch the brilliantly illuminated liner of the sky.

Began Trip at 9:12 o'Clock.

Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., June 2 (A.P.).—Under a quarter moon, so bright the night sky was blue instead of black, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin floated from the ground at 9:12 (E. S. T.) tonight to start its eighth ocean crossing and complete its journey across four continents and two hemispheres.

With 22 passengers, four of them women, and a crew of 50, the giant ship lifted lightly into the luminous sky and with a roar of its five great motors headed away for New York and the sea beyond.

The departure was uneventful, the ship being towed easily from the hangar by the mobile mooring mast and scarcely more than half a hundred men. Ropes were cast loose. Guttural orders were barked from the open windows of the control cabin where Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the ship, superintended the sailing. And then came the final orders to the sailors and the marines holding the ropes.

Route Over Long Island.

"Up ship," a Navy officer called on signal from Dr. Eckener, and slowly, gracefully, the enormous bag, rimmed in silver by the moon on one side, and on the other a shapeless dim mass against the sky, floated upward. Bells rang sharply against the stillness and five engines shattered the quiet with the throbbing sound.

Its cabin windows an added constellation in the night, the dirigible swung away toward New York, off on its last great adventure. Three minutes after the ground began to drop away from the dirigible it was out of sight. On the way to New York it was to drop a wreath at Asbury Park and after visiting the metropolis it was to cut across Long Island and sail away over the ocean.

Zero hour was originally 9 o'clock, Eastern standard time tonight, but late in the day the ground crew was ordered to be ready to take the ship up at 7:30. The passengers were brought to Lakehurst on a train, arriving at 7:09. Of these passengers, seven were for Seville, Spain, and the rest for Friedrichshafen, the dirigible's home port and the last stop on the present four-continent, two-hemisphere flight.

As the Graf lay, refueled and repaired, beside its Americanized sister, the Navy's Los Angeles, and with two Navy blimps huddling in the corners, 1,000 pounds of food was stowed away for use across the ocean.

Menu to Be American.

There were chicken and beef and veal, bacon and eggs, cereals, ice cream, lettuce, tomatoes and strawberries. It will be an American menu between here and Friedrichshafen, just as it is German when sailing from a German port or Spanish when taking off from Spain.

Besides the saloon passengers two chief petty officers of the Navy stationed here, survivors of the Shenandoah disaster, were invited to go along with the German crew, but last-minute orders from Washington kept them from going.

Thousands of visitors filed through the hangar all day, walking along the Attired in his new judicial robes, Owen J. Roberts assumed his duties as an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court in taking the oath of office at noon yesterday.

Court Ends Term, Setting Record by Not Carrying Over Argued Cases.

(Associated Press)

Entering a historic courtroom crowded to its doors with spectators, Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts, of Pennsylvania, took the oath of office yesterday and assumed the seat on the highest bench left vacant by the death of Justice Sanford, of Tennessee.

Shortly afterward, the court ended its present term, adjourning until October 6.

The Supreme Court established a new record by ending its term without carrying over any cases which were argued during the term. During the term ended today there were on the court's docket 984 cases compared with 968 last term. It disposed of 795 cases, compared with 825 last term. It will carry over to its next term, beginning in October, 189 unargued cases, compared with 143 last year.

The ceremonies inducting Justice Roberts into his new office were simple in the extreme. He entered the

(Associated Press.)

Expenditures of $358,178 for the ticket headed by Secretary Davis in the recent Pennsylvania Republican primary were reported to the Senate campaign funds investigation committee yesterday, bringing the total cost of the three-cornered primary to $897,387.

Expressing surprise at the total cost of his campaign, Secretary Davis reappeared before the Senate investigators to tell them he believed most of the money was spent in behalf of Francis Shunk Brown, defeated gubernatorial candidate who ran on his ticket.

The reports of the treasurers of four Davis-Brown organizations brought to a close the committee's investigation of the Pennsylvania primary in which Secretary Davis won the senatorial nomination. Chairman Nye, of the

The politico-clergyman, just back from a tumultous session with his fellow churchmen at Dallas, where, according to interpretations placed upon their action by several of the leaders, he asked for and was granted forgiveness for his stock market transactions and was commended for his fight on Smith, has given the impression through public utterances and otherwise that he intends to fight off his ordeal with the committee as long as possible.

Divisions of Posse Hunting Bandits Fire on Each Other

Doctor, One of 1,000 Volunteers in Search for Michigan Bank Robbers, Seriously Wounded as Groups Exchange Shots While Quarry Escapes.

Bellaire, Mich., June 2 (A.P.).—Seeking five men who held up the Antrim County State Savings Bank at Mancelona and escaped with $500 this morning, a hurriedly organized posse of Antrim County farmers engaged in prolonged gun battle between themselves this afternoon.

Four of the five robbers entered the bank at Mancelona shortly after 9 a. m., scooped the money from the tellers' cages and made off in an automobile. Herbert Sullivan, of Mancelona, who with a companion, sught to overtake the robbers, was wounded by a shotgun charge fired by one af them.

Posses numbering nearly 1,000 men were assembled and began searching highways along which the fugitives were believed to have passed. Two divisions of the posse encountered each other here this afternoon and, believing themselves confronted by the robbers, opened fire. Dr. J. H. R. Gerver, one member of one of the posses, was seriously wounded. He lay in the hot sun for nearly two hours while the farmers besieged the house, fearing to rescue him, in the belief the fugitives were hiding there and would shoot them if they approached the building. One member of the besieging posse finally managed to enter the farmhouse and recognition followed.

The robbers were lost sight of several miles beyond Mancelona. Sheriff's officers here tonight believed the robbers had escaped from the county.

The hundreds of farmers were reinforced by State police details from Traverse City and from Lansing. When the news spread that the men were cornered in a farmhouse the State police at Lansing sent several officers north in an airplane equipped with tear gas bombs and other weapons in an effort to dislodge the robbers. Other airplanes sent out from upstate airports were searching the countryside, which is wild and offers many opportunities for hiding places.

PAY INCREASE FOR FIREMEN, POLICE VOTED

House Authorizes Raise and Bill Now Goes Back to Senate.

WHITE HOUSE TO GET MEASURE THIS WEEK

Simmons Denounced as Dictator in Committee Altercation.

NEBRASKAN SCORES COMPLETE TRIUMPH

Amendment Adds to Sum Employes Must Give to Retirement Fund.

Authorizing raises for all of Washington's policemen and firemen, the Capper-Zihlman bill was passed by the House late yesterday. It now goes back to the Senate, which will be asked to approve the Phipps-Simmons amendments. The bill is expected to be on President Hoover's desk before the end of the week.

There was virtually no debate on the bill when it came up in the House, but there was plenty of debate on it at a committee meeting earlier in the day.

As the bill finally was agreed to yesterday, it represented a complete triumph for Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska. Playing a lone hand, he had told the 21 members of the House District committee that unless the bill were rewritten as he wanted it rewritten, there would be no bill at all. And he had his way.

Simmons Called Dictator.

At a meeting of the committee yesterday morning the members denounced Mr. Simmons as a "dictator," and then, with vast disgust, voted to adjourn sine die.

"We should go a whole lot farther," said Representative Bowman (Republican), of West Virginia. "Every member of this committee should hand in his resignation."

At the outset of the meeting Acting Chairman McLeod called up the amended bill, and said it represented a "compromise" between the views of the committee and those of Mr. Simmons.

Action Termed Surrender.

"Compromise!" said Representative Reid (Republican), of Illinois. "I call that a surrender, not a compromise."

"This is the rawest thing I have seen during my years in Congress," said Representative Lampert (Republican), of Wisconsin. "But we are helpless because House leaders have sided with Simmons. Unless we accept these amendments there will be no legislation, and the policemen and firemen will get no salary increases at all."

Donovan Memorandum Cited.

Mr. McLeod was asked who had drawn up the memorandum on the bill which he had just read, and he explained that the author was Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor.

"Then it isn't even to a member of Congress to whom we are submitting," said Representative Tarver (Democrat), of Georgia.

In the end, the bill was approved and sent to the House. The salaries

GANG GUNS SPIT DEATH TO 13 IN TWO-CITY WAR

TWO OF SIX WOUNDED THOUGHT TO BE DYING

Machine Gun Cuts Down Trio at Cottage While Woman Is Injured.

CAPONE AND MORAN GUNMEN ARE SOUGHT

Pair of Policemen Die in Michigan Trying to Question Thugs.

Chicago, June 2 (A.P.).—Machine guns, shotguns, pistols blazed from the center to the four corners of the Chicago area over the week-end and left the police with the fear they had a new beer war on their hands. Eight are dead, two are dying, four others were wounded in lesser degree. In one affray, three were massacred and a woman and man were probably fatally shot.

Five of the dead were known gangsters, two were apparently ride victims, and for that reason assumed to have been gangsters, and one was a gambler.

The most spectacular affair was the slaying of three gangsters early Sunday morning in a cottage at Fox Lake, north of Chicago. It was in this massacre that Mrs. Vivian McGinnis, wife of a lawyer, was shot four times, as was George Druggan, brother of the notorious Terry, who sat at the table with her.

Members of Separate Bands.

The slayers fired through windows with machine guns, striking the gangsters and the woman. The three killed were Michael Quirk, Sam Pellar and Joe Bertsche. The fact that all were members or leaders of separate hoodlum bands puzzled authorities.

A multitude of theories swamped the various police departments of the area. They ranged from war for control of rural beer business to war for control of the Unione Siciliane, in which case they might be connected with recent slayings in Detroit.

The other gang attacks with their results were:

Saturday morning—Philip Gnolfo, reputed professional killer, slain as he drove his car on a West Side street, the slayers pursuing in another machine. A Toledo man and a Rochester man were riding with him. One was wounded. A 14-year-old boy was struck by stray bullets.

Three Suffer Wounds.

Saturday night—Samuel Monistero, alcohol equipment salesman, allied with the Aiello gang, mortally wounded on North Clark street as slayers fired from a car. Two others were wounded in the same attack, made near the scene of the St. Valentine Day massacre in which seven were shot down in a garage.

Two men, who appeared to be victims of rides, were found early today. One was propped against a bank building in Chicago, and the other was found in the lake at Whiting, Ind. Neither was identified.

James Good, 24, Nego gambler, was

Business in Washington

By RALPH GOLDSMITH,
General Merchandise Manager Lansburgh & Bro.

There is every reason for confidence in the present business situation in Washington. The department store may fairly be taken as one of the major indicators because of its daily contact in serving the community with apparel, accessories and home needs of every description.

The science of knowing accurately the demands of the public places the progressive department store of today in a position to have a complete assortment of merchandise that will meet practically all requirements. It is natural, therefore, to assume that the activity of the department store reflects a feeling of confidence and security.

Supply and demand regulate commodity prices, some of which are lower owing to many contributing factors, such as the development of methods of production which have greatly increased the output of factories. On the other hand we invariably find a firm wholesale market for desirable timely merchandise and a ready retail market for fashion-right merchandise.

As a medium of distribution, passing on to the public its daily needs at fair prices based upon current commodity prices, we have reason to feel confidence in the present situation, as our business to date shows a satisfactory increase.

Looking ahead, the progressive plans for future development of our great city inspire an optimistic picture for growth, and we feel that by keeping pace with our city, by availing ourselves of the most modern methods of serving the Washington community, we will be assured of success.

The development of interest from all corners to the world which is bringing more and more people to the Nation's Capital insures a steady growth in population. There is no other city that could more logically be considered the international capital of the world.

PENSION BILL PASSED OVER VETO OF HOOVER IN SENATE AND HOUSE

Overwhelming Vote Cast for Aid to Spanish War Veterans.

PRESIDENT'S AIDS TRY IN VAIN TO STEM TIDE

Roll Calls Show Tally of 61-18 and 298-14 for Motion.

$11,500,000 INVOLVED IN ESTIMATED OUTLAY

Bingham's Effort to Refer Message to Committee Ruled Out of Order.

By two overwhelming votes Congress yesterday enacted the measure liberalizing pensions for Spanish War veterans over the veto of President Hoover.

With few preliminaries, the Senate voted, 61 to 18, to override the first veto message of Mr. Hoover to be acted up. Within an hour administration leaders in the House were trampled down as they sought to defer a roll call until Thursday, and the House at once proceeded to vote, 298 to 14, in favor of enactment of the bill.

Roll calls showed the most solid line-up against a presidential veto in recent years, only a handful of Republican regulars in each branch standing by the President. The Republican young guard in the Senate joined Western independents in the uprising, and some of the old guard machine also left the fold on the vote.

Democrats in the Senate and House voted solidly against the veto.

The measure originally went through Congress with the support of administration leaders and without any intimation of presidential displeasure. It provides a more liberal basis for pensions to Spanish War veterans and involves an estimated outlay of $11,500,000.

Provisions of Measure.

In vetoing the legislation President Hoover voiced three objections. He complained it would allow pensions to veterans whose disabilities arise from "vicious habits," that it lowered the period for nonservice connected disability pensioners and that there should be requirement of need as well as disability for granting pensions.

Chairman Knutson, of the House pensions committee, brought back word from the White House yesterday that Mr. Hoover was ready to approve a modified measure, but it was too late to stop the Senate where an agreement previously had been entered into calling for a vote on the veto at 3 o'clock.

It was veterans' legislation that brought Calvin Coolidge one of his big set-tos in Congress. His veto of the soldier bonus insurance measure was overridden in both the Senate and House. These votes, however, were 59 to 26 in the Senate and 313 to 78 in the House.

House Members in Senate.

The first vote in the Senate on a Hoover veto attracted considerable interest, and members of the House crowded about the chamber during the roll call.

Mr. Knutson's motion to postpone a vote in the House was rejected, 233 to 85. After a brief parliamentary skirmish, the House proceeded without debate, to vote on the veto and the necessary two-thirds majority was never in doubt.

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, led the move in the Senate against the vote. He was joined in debate by speakers on both sides of the chamber. Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, sought to refer the veto message to committee for consideration, but his motion was held out of order.

The bill, now a law, notwithstanding White House disapproval, is esti-

SACRISTAN KILLED BY RUNAWAY TRUCK

Brother James Slicer, 76, of Georgetown, Victim in Odd Accident.

MACHINE SLIDES ON HILL

Struck down by an electric truck in a runaway ride on a Thirty-first street hill at M street northwest, Brother James Slicer, 76 years old, sacristan in charge of the boys' chapel at Georgetown University, was fatally injured in midafternoon yesterday.

Suffering from lacerations of the head, the back and the left leg, he died four hours later without regaining consciousness at Georgetown Hospital, where he had been rushed by the operator of a taxicab, Joseph Williams, of 711 Thirty-second street northeast, who witnessed the truck crash over a corner traffic stop sign and plunge into Brother Slicer.

The electric vehicle, owned by the Dorsch Baking Co., had been parked along Thirty-first street, about 200 feet north of M street, by its driver, William Wharton, 27 years old, of P street near Sixteenth street northwest. He had made a delivery and was preparing to close the rear door of the truck, facing up the slight incline, when the machine suddenly slid backward. Wharton was struck on the shoulder and knocked aside as the truck speedily gained momentum in its wild jaunt.

Rolling along at a dizzy speed, the machine finally battered down the M street sign and then struck down Brother Slicer, who was walking by on his customary afternoon stroll.

Born in Canada, Brother Slicer entered the Jesuit order at its preparatory school in Frederick, Md., in

Hourly New York-Capital Airplane Service to Start

Washington Airport Selected as Southern Terminus of New Line Which Will Operate at Fares Approximating Cost on Railroads.

Washington Airport has been selected as the Southern terminus of the new hourly plane service from New York with a stop-over at Philadelphia, it was announced last night by officials of the New York-Philadelphia-Washington Airway Corporation of which Amelia Earhart, noted woman flyer, is vice president. The new line will start operation August 15.

Nicholas Ludington, president of the corporation, announced that rates for the trip would "approximate existing railroad and Pullman fares." The railroad fare from New York to Washington is slightly more than $8 and the plane fare is not expected to be over $10.

The Newark (N. J.) Airport will be the Northern terminus of the airline and flights will be made daily in six ten-passenger Stimson planes, tri-motored with the Lycoming engine. The planes will only operate in the daytime making ten trips from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. The company has arranged to convey passengers from the Newark terminal to New York by busses. The Philadelphia terminus will be at the Central Airport, Camden, N. J., and busses will be placed in operation there to carry passengers to the Philadelphia business center.

The new line is seen as the first serious attempt to compete with the railroads for passenger service between New York, Philadelphia and Washington, by rivaling the hourly train service of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania.

The corporation was recently formed in Delaware with a capital of $1,000,000. The announcement stated the company would not sell stock to the public, all the shares to be held by Ludington and his brother, C. P. Ludington, a director of the Aviation Corporation, and the North American Aviation Corporation and chairman of the board of Ludington Flying Service in Philadelphia.

DAVIS SURPRISED AT COST OF DRIVE

committee, withheld any comment on the expenditures aside from an observation that they were considerably less than was spent in a similar Pennsylvania battle four years ago.

William S. Vare was denied a seat by the Senate because of his expenditure of $785,000 by his ticket in 1926. A total of $2,500,000 was spent in that three-cornered contest.

Davis told the committee that so far as he knew the $358,000 accounted for everything that was spent in behalf of the Davis-Brown organization. He added, "It is more money than I thought was spent, but I think you will find very little of it was spent for me."

The reports of campaign expenditures showed that the Mellon machine enlisted, financially, at least, behind the Davis-Brown ticket. Secretary Mellon, R. B. Mellon and W. L. Mellon were enrolled for $5,000 each among the Davis-Brown contributors.

Secretary Davis interrupted the committee hearing to "explain" that the Mellons each gave their checks to Francis Shunk Brown "to be used exclusively for himself." However, Samuel Vauclain, treasurer of the State Davis-Brown committee, told the committee that Mr. Brown placed no restrictions upon the use of the Mellon checks in turning them over to him.

Nye remarked that it was generally believed the Mellons were supporting another candidate, presumably Senator Grundy. Vauclain said the Mellon checks were made out to Mr. Brown, who was defeated for the gubernatorial nomination by Gifford Pinchot.

Senator Grundy has informed the committee that $338,650 was collected for his senatorial campaign. Francis H. Bohlen, wet Republican senatorial candidate, reported that the ticket on which he ran spent $200,000.

Grundy placed his personal expenditures at $291,000, while Secretary Davis reported a contribution from his own purse of $10,541. Mr. Bohlen said he spent only time and work.

The Davis-Brown expenditures were divided as follows: State committee, $129,693; Philadelphia citizens' advisory committee, $62,575; Pittsburgh committee, $58,460, and the western Pennsylvania regular Republican's organization, $77,450.

The detailed reports submitted by the representatives of these organizations to the Senate investigators showed that most of the money was spent on advertising and in contributions to various county organizations.

Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh manufacturer, was the largest contributor to the Davis-Brown campaign, having made three payments totaling $86,750.

Wayne Blakely, treasurer of the western Pennsylvania regular Republican organization, informed the committee that Mr. Bonitz had agree to raise that amount upon failing to get the contributions, filled the pledge from his own purse. Secretary Davis said he knew Bonitz but that he was unaware of his contributions.

Senator Dill (Democrat), of Washington, questioned the Pennsylvania Republican workers as to their attitude on limiting campaign expenditures. Contrary to the views previously expressed by Senator Grundy, most of them favored such a move. J. Hampton Moore, chairman of the citizens advisory committee of Philadelphia, asserted that the existence of the Senate campaign committee had kept down the expenditures in this campaign and he indorsed it.

MORE SECRET DATA ASKED OF STIMSON

Several Papers on Ship Pact 'Held Back,' According to Senator Johnson.

GENEVA NOTES DESIRED

By ALBERT W. FOX

The secret diplomatic documents which Secretary Stimson has sent to the Senate foreign relations committee, in response to Senator Borah's request that these exchanges between the British, Japanese and American governments be made available in connection with the London Naval Treaty, were examined in executive session yesterday. The result of the preliminary examination indicated that Mr. Stimson has not fully complied with the committee's request.

Senator Hiram Johnson said after the committee session that the State Department had apparently not sent a full list of the documents desired. The Senator believes that several of the most important are being held back. In order to obtain the full list, instead of a partial list, Mr. Johnson obtained authority from the committee to draft a letter addressed by the committee to Mr. Stimson requesting that the originally-expressed desire of the committee be complied with by the Department of State. The committee will act upon the letter at its next meeting, the date of which was not definitely set but which probably will be tomorrow.

The request for the document followed the action of Senator Reed in submitting to the committee one secret document which he believed would serve as an argument against the naval officers who testified against the pact. Mr. Johnson claimed that if any part of the secret documents was to be produced before the committee, the rest of the documents should be submitted.

Geneva Data Asked Also.

Meanwhile, Senator Moses, who has been absent during the committee hearings until yesterday, made a motion that Mr. Stimson be requested to supply the committee with diplomatic correspondence which preceded the tripartite Geneva Naval Conference of 1927. This motion was adopted and Mr. Stimson will accordingly be asked to supply this correspondence from the files of his department.

The object of the request for the correspondence which led up to the Geneva conference with the correspondence preceding the London conference is to contrast the attitude of the United States Government toward the naval demands of the British and Japanese governments before and after the apparent change in American naval policy.

"Surrender" Is Alleged.

Several witnesses before the committee have declared that the concessions made in the London treaty represent surrender of the policy which the United States maintained at Geneva. The failure of the Geneva conference, it has been asserted, was due to the fact that the American delegation declined to yield to the British demands that the number of 8-inch gun cruisers be limited to the United States and that America shape her cruiser-building program in conformity with British desires. It is understood that the correspondence concerning the Geneva conference will clearly demonstrate America's position at that time.

It has also been testified to by witnesses that Japan was willing to accept a ratio in auxiliary craft at Geneva considerably lower than the ratio which she obtained at London.

In view of this testimony, the committee believes that a thorough understanding of the situation requires an examination of the correspondence connected with the Geneva conference as well as the correspondence which preceded Ramsay MacDonald's visit to the United States last year, Which latter event marked the change in American naval policy.

Group's Action Toward Pact Causes Admiral's Wife to Resign.

Resentful at the attitude of the Navy League in seeking to block immediate ratification of the London naval treaty by the Senate, Mrs. H. E. Yarnell, wife of Rear Admiral Yarnell, Navy engineer-in-chief, and herself daughter of Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas, a founder of the League, yesterday tendered her resignation to the organization.

Mrs. Yarnell, who accompanied her husband to the conference in his capacity as a naval adviser to the American delegation, filed her resignation on the heels of a radio talk made by William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy League, in which he advocated delay of Senate action on the treaty until December.

"I think you soon will discover that the League has taken a wrong course and one that is quite unpatriotic," she declared in her letter of resignation. "As I have been a member of the Navy League for many years and my father was instrumental in the conception of its formation, you can well understand it is hard to find I can no longer approve of its activities, which at present I consider detrimental to the Navy and the Nation."

Mexican Outlaws Murder American

Band Attacks Mine South of Sonora; One Raider Is Left Dead.

Bisbee, Ariz., June 2 (A.P.).—Twenty alleged Mexican outlaws attacked the Silver Plume mine, 25 miles south of Cananea, Sonora, today and killed the camp policeman and Charles Koehler, an American mill man.

One of the raiders was killed, presumably by Koehler, who had run from his house after engaging the attackers. The band appeared first at the home of the camp policeman and, after killing him, took his ammunition.

E. Howells, superintendent of the mine, said he believed the attackers were disgruntled workers discharged when the Manzanel mine closed some weeks ago. Koehler had been foreman there. After killing Koehler, the raiders burned his home. His body was found about 50 yards from the ruins. Howells said he fled to safety with his family when he heard the shooting.

HOOVER FELICITATES OLAYA

Henry Miller Photo.

President Hoover and President-elect Enrique Olaya, of Colombia, exchanged official visits yesterday at the White House and the Colombian Legation, where Dr. Olaya, until his election had served three years as Minister to the United States. Upon his arrival at the Union Terminal, he was escorted by a troop of cavalry to the legation. Dr. Olaya last night was guest at the White House at a state dinner in his honor, with Mrs. Hoover resuming her place at the head of the table for the first time since she was injured nearly two months ago in a fall.

M'DONALD IS VICTOR IN FIRST PACT TEST

Conservative Move to Have Naval Treaty Examined Defeated in House.

BRITAIN HELD HELPLESS

London, June 2 (A.P.).—Prime Minister MacDonald tonight won his first victory on the London naval treaty in the House of Commons, defeating a Conservative motion to appoint a committee which would examine the treaty. The government defeated the motion by 282 votes to 201.

The motion, offered by former Premier Stanley Baldwin, was to appoint a committee of eleven members to examine the provisions of the London agreement. The government was supported by the Liberals.

When Stanley Baldwin, the conservative leader, offered the motion, he said the United States had taken such an action to insure that it had got a square deal. He did not see why Great Britain should not do likewise.

Future Attitude Sought.

The country desired to know before it was committed to the treaty, he asserted "whether our security in the first place remains, whether we shall be in a postion in any circumstances to fulfill our own sacred obligations under the League of Nations, and thirdly—which is the most important—how we stand and how we shall stand in the future with regard to European standards of naval construction."

Prime Minister MacDonald answered that if the Conservative proposal were adopted, it would affect future relations between the government and the House of Commons.

Churchill Is Critical.

As to Mr. Baldwin's remarks that the United States was studying the treaty, referring to the hearings before the United States Senate, Mr. MacDonald said this had been done in the United States because it was part of the ordinary treaty procedure there while such was not the case in England.

Vehement criticism was left to Winston Churchill, prominent Conservative.

"It is not a treaty of parity; it is a treaty of inferiority," he asserted. He added that never since the reign of Charles II had the country been so defenseless, and never in the reign of Charles II was it so vulnerable.

Man, Overcome by Gas, Revived.

Harry V. Eberhart, 27 years old, of L street near Eighth street southeast, attempted to end his life, police say, by inhaling illuminating gas late yesterday in his home. Eberhart was revived by the fire rescue squad and removed to Gallinger Hospital, where his condition is not regarded as serious. Eberhart is said to have told the police that he was tired of living.

WORK ON CRUISERS ALREADY UNDER WAY

Adams Admits Construction of Three Treaty Ships Has Been Started.

ARMOR PLANS ALTERED

Work has been started quietly on the 10,000-ton cruisers held up by President Hoover before the London naval conference and will now be pushed, one of the vessels is to be built in the New York Navy Yard.

These facts came out from questions put yesterday to Secretary of the Navy Adams. He announced that the design of the new 8-inch cruisers, allotted in the treaty, has been agreed on and work is going ahead at the New York, Philadelphia and Puget Sound navy yards.

The vessels there under initial construction are the CL 32, at New York; CL 36, at Philadelphia, and CL 34, at Puget Sound. Mr. Adams refused to say the new cruiser in the New York yard would be named Brooklyn, as has been asked. The vessels will be completed in 1933.

A month ago President Hoover announced that work was being held up on the new cruisers because of a change in design which the naval engineers wished to make. It is understood, although the naval people are reluctant to give out the information, that the change includes a material strengthening of the armor plate on the turrets and a general heavier armament without causing a reduction in speed.

At the three navy yards what is termed the "mold loft" is being made today. It is a pattern on thick paper of the shape of the vessel about which the keel and hte steel plates are later fitted.

At the New York and other yards much of the steel and other material to be used in the construction of the ships is being assembled. It is estimated the actual laying down of the steel will be commenced in September.

Youth, Afire, Flees Aid; Runs Half Mile and Dies

Midland, Ontario, June 2 (A.P.).—Orton Crawford, 17 years old, was dead today—a victim of a carelessly tossed match and his own fleet-footedness.

Would-be rescuers were unable to overtake him and beat out the flames when his clothing was set afire by a gasoline explosion in the Midland Engine Works. Crawford outdistanced his pursuers in a half-mile run across the fields to his home; collapsed and died six hours later. Plant employes said the youth threw a match, after lighting a cigarette, into an empty gasoline barrel. The building was destroyed by the fire that followed.

Father and Guardian Fight For Boy Prodigy's Custody

Parent Says 9-Year-Old's Talent With Violin Is Being Exploited.

New York, June 2 (A.P.).—The father of a 9-year-old musical prodigy from San Francisco and the young woman who for several years has been his teacher met today in a court in a legal battle for the youngster's custody. The little violinist is Ruggiero Ricci, who made a triumphant debut with the New York Symphony Orchestra last fall and was hailed by metropolitan music critics as a second Yehudi Menuhin.

Two years ago Miss Beth Lackey became the guardian not only of Ruggerio but also of his younger brother, Giorgio, who also shows some promise with the violin.

Now the father wishes to have the boys returned to him, charging that Miss Lackey exploited them. The later appeared in court today with Ruggiero and Giorgio in answer to a habeas corpus proceedings.

The father is attempting to have the California guardianship set aside on the ground that it is illegally granted, in that the court that issued it had no jurisdiction.

He said Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bartlett, of Chicago, who had been underwriting the boys' musical education and were interested members of the audience at Ruggerio's recitals here last fall, had withdrawn their financial support because they felt the youngsters were being exploited.

Miss Lackey's counsel said the boys had not been exploited. That Ruggeiro had appeard publicly only four times during the last six months.

He declared the boy's earnings up to date were $3,832, which was deposited in Miss Lackey's name but under court order.

Miss Lackey admitted the Bartletts had withdrawn their financial aid, but denied it was for the reason given by the father.

Justice Valente ordered further hearings for tomorrow and said he also would decide at that time whether he had jurisdiction.

CADET DRILL HONOR AWARDS DUE TODAY

Dr. Reichelderfer to Give Prizes at Conclusion of Competition.

SCENE TO BE STRIKING

Selection of the winning company of the forty-third annual competitive drill of Washington high school cadets, which began yesterday at Griffith Stadium, will be made late this afternoon.

Designation of the victorious company will be announced when the entire brigade is on the field. The brigade adjutant, Maj. Aaron Goldman, of Central High School, will receive the news from the judges and will then march to the center of the field. On reaching this point he will turn sharply in the direction of the winning company and march toward the captain.

Companies gaining second and third places will be singled out in the same manner. A review of the entire brigade will precede announcement of the winning companies.

This ceremony, which consumes but a few minutes, is one of the most thrilling in local high school life. Twilight has usually settled over the field as the winning companies are announced, and the picture of hundreds of uniformed boys, standing at attention, is one that usually lives always in the minds of the spectators.

Schools to Be Closed.

All high schools will be closed for the event, and grand stands of the stadium are expected to be crowded with students, teachers and parents.

Company F, of Central High School, will be the last to take the field before the verdict is announced. All other companies from Central will drill this morning. Regiments of Western, Eastern and McKinley High Schools and half the battalion of Business High School drilled yesterday.

This afternoon odd companies of each of these schools and the remaining company of the Business battalion will take the field. These will be Company H of Western, E of McKinley, B of Eastern and Company E of the Business High School battalion.

Reichelderfer to Officiate.

Commissioner Luther Reichelderfer, who was once a colonel of cadets at Central High School, will make the awards. The silk flag, that has seen 43 competitive drills, will be awarded to the victorious company.

The captain of the winning company will receive the Allison Naylor gold medal. The winning company will be given a crimson ribbon. A blue ribbon will be given the company winning second place and a white ribbon with gold lettering will be awarded the winner of the third place.

The Adjutant, the official magazine of the cadets, is declared to be the most attractive published this year. It is the work of Miss Rebecca E. Shanley, teacher of English at Central High School. Miss Shanley originated the magazine in 1917 with twenty pages. It is now a handsomely illustrated volume of 120 pages.

Weights and Measures Conference Due Today

Weights and measures of divers kinds will be discussed for the next three days by experts from all sections of the country at the twenty-third national conference on weights and measures at the Bureau of Standards. The meeting opens at 11 o'clock this morning and will continue through Friday. The latter session will be held at the Washington Hotel.

An address by Dr. George K. Burgess, director of the Bureau of Standards, who is also president of the conference, will open the convention. Following reports of delegates and officials and luncheon, technical problems on measuring devices will be discussed during the afternoon.

Helen Christine Merritt was awarded the alumnae sholarship. Miss Du Val received the Bliss prize. The exercises were opened with the school song, pledge to the flag and the singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner." The benediction was given by the Rev. James W. Morris. About 200 persons were present.

Updike Ordered to Pay $125 Monthly to Wife

Ralph Eugene Updike, former representative from Indiana and said to be the only man who ever outpointed Gene Tunney, retired boxing champion, must pay his wife, Mrs. Charlotte Mae Updike, and their four children $125 a month maintenance, according to an order signed yesterday in District Supreme Court by Justice Jennings Bailey.

Mrs. Updike filed suit against her husband several days ago, alleging that he had not adequately provided for her or the children since last May 15. The court order is for temporary maintenance pending hearing of the wife's suit on its merits. Attorney Raymond Neudecker appears for Mrs. Updike.

Grant Will Ask Funds For Cramton Measure

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, will confer with Fred W. Wight, of the Bureau of the Budget, today in an effort to get a substantial appropriation included in the deficiency bill for use in putting the Cramton bill into effect as soon as possible.

Although he would not disclose the amount he intended to request, Col. Grant said that it would be sufficient to carry out several projects which are merely awaiting sufficient funds.

I. C. C. FRUIT RATES SLASH EDICT UPSET

RESOLUTION ANALYZED

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court held unanimously yesterday that Hoch-Smith resolution under which the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered a rate reduction on deciduous fruits was more of a "hopeful characterization" of a desriable object than of a rule to control rate making.

The decision directed setting aside an order of the commission that rates be reduced on fruits shipped from California. The case reached the court in a protest in which 450 railroads joined in opposition to the order.

Justice Van Devanter, analyzing the provision of the resolution which required that agricultural products should be carried "at the lowest possible rate compatible with maintenance of adequate transportation service," declared that it was "more in the nature of a hopeful characterization of an object deemed desirable * * * If it may be attainable, than of a rule intended to control rate making."

The court found that the resolution had an uncertain meaning. Referring to the constitutional question which would be raised should it be given the construction placed on it by the commission, the court announced that it was of the opinion that the joint resolution, "must be held to work no substantial change in the meaning or operation * * * of existing law."

"Our conclusion," it added, "is that the order of the commission was based upon an erroneous construction of the joint resolution."

courtroom at the end of the procession of justices. All were present except Justice Sutherland, who had sailed for Europe.

The new justice, unanimously confirmed for his position, stopped at the clerk's desk while the court was being opened, and then had the oath of office administered by Clerk Charles Elmore Cropley. He was escored to his seat on the bench with the court and visitors standing.

Among its decisions yesterday, the court held New Orleans had the right to compel the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., to remove a viaduct used by its street car line and that Henry County, Missouri, had imposed illegal taxes on the Brinkerhoff-Faris Trust & Saving Co., of Clinton, Mo.

Overdue Mexican Lands in Texas

Will Attempt to Reach New York in One Hop From There.

San Antonio, Tex., June 2 (A.P.).—Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexican aviator, said tonight he would take off from here Wednesday for New York, making the flight in one hop if possible, and after remaining in New York a few days would attempt a nonstop flight from there to Mexico City.

Col. Fierro landed at Winburn Field here shortly before noon today, dispelling fears felt for his safety after he had failed to put in an earlier appearance on his flight from Burbank, Calif., where he took off Sunday morning, intending to land here Sunday afternoon. Because of a leaky connection his gas supply gave out and the Mexican flier made a forced landing on a ranch 30 miles southwest of San Anegio, Tex., late yesterday.

The landing gear was damaged in landing, but he took off without mishap this morning after procuring a supply of fuel. Ollie B. Page, rancher and the unexpected host last night to the famous Mexican aviator, said Col. Fierro coasted to earth at about the only place within 10 miles that he could have landed safely.

50 Taken as Dry Agents Swoop Down on Towns

Pine Bluff, Ark., June 2 (A.P.).—Fifty persons were under arrest here today on charges of violating prohibition laws as a drive against bootleggers, begun last night by Federal authorities, continued with no sign of relenting.

The raids followed an investigation conducted here for six weeks by undercover agents. Two white women were among the number arrested. City and county officers were aiding the Federal authorities in the raids.

New York, June 2 (A.P.).—High-grade liquors valued at $82,000 were seized by customs officials today on board the American Diamond Line freighter Ambridge at Hoboken, N. J. Inspectors discovered the liquor in the hold underneath cargo consigned to Baltimore and Norfolk.

The Ambridge, owned by the Shipping Board, arrived last Friday from Antwerp. The Treasury Department has started an investigation to determine how the liquor got on board.

The effect of ice upon food is something more than refrigeration. In an ice refrigerator meats are not discolored. Moisture is not taken from fruits and vegetables nor are they robbed of their delicate flavor.

American Ice works automatically to protect food. Simply keep the ice compartment two-thirds full, and a good refrigerator will regulate its own cold temperature. No delicate adjustments necessary.

FORBES CONSIDERED AS ENVOY TO TOKYO

Boston Banker Served as Chief of Commission to Investigate Haiti.

ONCE RULED PHILIPPINES

President Hoover has offered the post of Ambassador to Japan to W. Cameron Forbes, of Boston, it was indicated at the White House yesterday. Mr. Forbes was governor general of the Philippines from 1909 to 1913. Recently he headed the Hoover Commission to Haiti.

It is thought probable that Mr. Forbes will accept. The State Department will then cable to the Japanese Foreign office asking whether Mr. Forbes will be persona grata to the Japanese Government.

The post at Tokyo is vacant now. Assistant Secretary of State William R. Castle, jr., who was named special American Ambassador to Japan for the duration of the London Naval Conference, is on his way back to the United States. The last regular Ambassador to Japan was Charles MacVeagh.

Mr. Forbes is a close friend of President Hoover. He was born in 1870, educated at Harvard University and Trinity College. He is a banker and a broker and a partner of J. M. Forbes & Co., merchants in Boston.

On 1904 Mr. Forbes went to the Philippines as a member of the Philippine Commission. He sered as Insular Secretary of Commerce and police from 1904 to 1908; vice governor for a year, and Governor General from 1909 to 1913. He was receiver of the Brazil Railway Company from 1914 to 1919, and in 1921 he returned to the Philippine Islands on a commission appointed by President Harding to investigate conditions there.

Church Asks U. S. To Govern Films

Strong Dry Law Resolution Also Approved by Northern Baptists.

Cleveland, June 2 (A.P.).—The national convention of the Northern Baptist Church here went on record tonight as recommending Federal control of the moving-picture industry and advocating an unwavering defense of the prohibition laws. Resolutions on these subjects were approved today as the convention neared its final session. A committee report on relations with the Federal Council of Churches in Christ also was adopted. The committee had considered whether the sponsoring of a radio preacher by the council is a proper function.

"While recognizing the unique phase of this situation, we would not favor making this precedent by which the Federal Council would undertake the appointment of an official preaching ministry," the committee reported.

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, of New York, prominent exponent of liberal theology, was the chief speaker at the closing program tonight. His subject was, "After Nineteen Hundred Years."

French Liquor Vessel Being Towed Into Port

Norfolk, Va., June 2 (A.P.).—The French ship Metmuzel, captured last night about 26 miles northeast of Cape Charles with eleven men and about 1,000 cases of liquor on board, is being brought to Old Point Comfort by Patrol Boat 22, it was reported at Coast Guard headquarters here today.

The patrol boat took the vessel into custody off Parramore Banks, about 26 miles northeast of Cape Charles. The French ship, which is 110 feet long and of the subchaser class, is reported to have been of St. Pierre, Miquelon.

DILL, WALSH URGE TARIFF BILL HASTE

Democratic Party Leaders Disclaim Attempt to Hurry Vote.

G. O. P. STATEMENTS HIT

(Associated Press.)

Two Democratic senators, one from the Northwest and the other from New England, joined in a demand in the Senate yesterday that speedy disposition be made of the tariff bill in order that business may plan for the future.

Democratic leaders, however, disclaiming any attempt unduly to delay final action, pointed out that the two conference reports materially changed the Senate and House bills and served notice they would be discussed fully. A vote is not expected before the latter part of the week.

As soon as Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, called up the second report, covering only half a dozen important provisions, including the new flexible clause, Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, demanded an immediate vote without further debate.

Walsh Urges Haste.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, joined in urging "reasonable haste," saying he had reason to believe that business was "in a very serious and critical condition" and appeals were coming to him for quick action, even from opponents of the measure.

Objecting to a vote before the manifold compromises reached in conference were debated, Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, said the "Senate and the country were entitled to know what was done in conference and what is in the reports."

The Mississippian said he would discuss three phases of the measure, and added, "There will be no vote this week."

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, leading minority conferee of the Senate, concurred in the requests for quick action, but said he wanted ample time given for discussion.

G. O. P. Statements Derided.

The subject was before the Senate less than an hour, but Senator Harrison seized the opportunity to get in some jibes against the statements of four Republican leaders on the flexible provision which were issued Sunday through the Republican national committee.

Referring particularly to the statement of Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, that the new flexible clause would give the President power to correct any "inequities" in the pending bill when it becomes the law, Senator Harrison said this "must have been a misprint" and what was meant was "iniquities."

Jouette Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, joined in the reply to the Republican statements on the flexible provision.

"The suggestion that he (President Hoover) wants the flexible tariff in order to correct the inequities of a bill, of every phase of the passage of which he was cognizant," he said in a formal statement, "seems almost like a confession that he connived at the enactment of a tariff law the viciousness of which he recognized."

Grandson of Garfield Is Divorced in Nevada

CHURCH REAFFIRMS FAITH IN DRY LAW

United Presbyterians Adopt Report of Committee Headed by McBride.

STRAW BALLOTS ARE HIT

Des Moines, Iowa, June 2 (A.P.).—Reaffirming faith in prohibition and deploring "private publicity enterprises in the form of straw ballots," a report of a committee on reform, headed by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League, today was adopted by the United Presbyterian Church assembly.

The report warned against the "insidious campaign of wet propaganda deliberately designed to discourage respect for prohibition and encourage the use of intoxicating liquor."

It further protests against "drinking scenes in the movies showing the use of intoxicants as attractive, adventurous and fashionable," and "insinuations favorable to intoxicating liquors in the fiction pages of leading magazines."

Belief that the use of cigarettes by children and youth decreases the desire or care for spiritual thought and lessens the ability to become real Christians is expressed.

Opposition to divorce, save on Scriptural grounds, is stated and ministers of the church are urged to exercise care in solemnizing marriage where the divorce question is involved.

A supplemental report prepared by the committee, exclusive of Dr. McBride, expressed satisfaction that in the "thorough investigation recently conducted by the Senate lobby committee the integrity of the Antisaloon League had once more been publicly confirmed."

POSSE IN MICHIGAN HUNTS BANK BANDITS

The robbers forced patrons and employes of the Mancelona Bank to lie down on the floor while they scooped up the money. They were able to take only that which was in the cages, as the bank vaults had not yet been opened. The four robbers who entered the bank then rejoined a fifth member of the gang in their car and drove off.

The robbers' automobile was found late today abandoned on a lonely road near a swamp 6½ miles north of Mancelona. A posse led by county officers and State police surrounded the swamp, which is heavily wooded.

Airplanes were circling overhead in an effort to locate the bandits before it became too dark to see them from the air. Latest reports said the robbers had not been located definitely.

Dr. Gerver, victim of mistaken identity this afternoon, was taken to a hospital. He was wounded in the neck and hip. His condition was pronounced serious at the hospital. Sullivan, who pursued the bandits immediately after the robbery and was wounded by them as they stopped suddenly and showed fight, had wounds in the neck and shoulder which were not considered serious.

Officers said that at least one of the robbers was wounded. There were bullet holes in the abandoned car and bloodstains also were found in it.

jail, later being taken to the courtroom on the third floor of the courthouse building, in which it will be decided whether or not they are to hang on the charge of murdering Naomi Hall Brady, 18-year-old expectant mother, and her sister, Dorothy, and infant brother, Samuel.

It is expected that most of today will be consumed in impanelling a jury. The story of the atrocity has been carried so far and wide that it is expected to be difficult to secure a jury without extraordinary efforts. The trial was moved to Rockville from Upper Marlboro at the request of defense counsel because of the alleged ill feeling in Prince Georges County and the fear that the defendants would not receive a fair trial.

Prosecution officials hope to be ready for the presentation of testimony Wednesday. It is expected that the trial will require about three weeks.

Sheriff Joseph B. Pyles, of Montgomery County, has summoned an additional 50 veniremen to supplement the 25 members of the regular jury so that there will be 75 talesmen from which to choose the twelve for the jury.

A full bench will hear the case: Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Robert B. Peter, sr., and John S. Newman.

It is considered probable that night sessions will be held in order to shorten the trial as much as possible. The great distance which most of the witnesses must come and the desire to refrain from locking up the jury any longer than is possible combine to make it probable that this measure will be taken by the judges.

Nearly 100 witnesses have been summoned, approximately 70 of whom are State witnesses, and it is probable that others will be summoned later for use in rebuttal or to prove points which arise in the trial.

LOBBY INQUIRERS DETERMINED CANNON SHALL TESTIFY TODAY

question his expenditures against Smith in 1928 because he was not lobbying, Senator Walsh, of Montana, yesterday declared it was just as much within the purview of the committee to investigate activities in connection with candidates seeking office as is lobbying with them after they have been elected.

There is considerable speculation as to just what will happen today. Bishop Cannon has not said that he will refuse to answer the committee's questions but he has intimated that he will.

Chairman Caraway, of the committee, has gone off to Arkansas. This leaves only Senators Walsh, of Montana, and Blaine, of Wisconsin, as the remaining active members.

Senator Robinson Inactive

If trouble is had with Cannon, they do not constitute a quorum. Senator Robinson, of Indiana, is another member, but for some time past he has been acting on the theory that the lobby committee is an evil instrument in the hands of the Democratic Progressive coalition. He has not been attending many meetings and when he does appear neither Senator Walsh nor Senator Blaine expect any friendly assistance from him.

Senator Borah is a member of the committee, but has taken very little interest in its activities. He can show up today of course and make a quorum, but it will be surprising if he permits himself to be drawn into the matter.

Bishop Cannon's reluctance to appear before the committee is because he fears an airing of his general political activities and quite possibly his stock market dealings.

Kable Bucket Shop

The committee has taken over the records of the Kable bucket shop case in New York, in which the Bishop figured.

It is particularly anxious to trace his expenditure in 1928 of $48,000 which was given to him by E. C. Jameson for use in his work against Smith. Jameson also gave him $17,000 for similar work.

The $17,000 is the only amount that was accounted for by Bishop Cannon under the law requiring an accounting of political expenditures. Cannon claims that this $17,000 is all that he was required to account for, as this is all he spent through the general anti-Smith headquarters located here. The $48,000 he says was spent in Virginia, with which he contends the committee has nothing to do.

First Challenge.

Bishop Cannon is the first one seriously to challenge the committee. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment complained at the manner in which the committee went into its files, but did not contest the issue and was subjected to a rigid scrutiny. The Antisaloon League also went, apparently willingly, under the committee's guns, as did Dr. Clarence True Wilson, of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Morals.

Bishop Cannon represents the temperance board of the Southern Methodist Church, and the general impression has always been that he is the board in so far as activity here is concerned.

Dirigible, With 22 Passengers, Starts Eighth Flight Across Ocean.

special platform which permitted them to peer into the cabin windows, and strolling about under the two big ships and the two little ones. As a rule the station is closed to visitors at 6 o'clock, but today the rules were changed to permit all who wished to stay and watch the take-off.

This will be the sixth time the Graf has crossed the North Atlantic and it has also crossed the South Atlantic once, on the present sky journey, and the Pacific once, during its flight around the world last year.

During the day repairs were completed on struts bracing the aft engine gondola which were broken while the ship was attached to is mooring mast at Pernambuco. The flight from South America here was made after temporary jury repairs to avoid loss of time.

The Graf got here early Saturday morning and in leaving had a board bill of about $8,000. When an accounting of costs is made, however, the Navy will return everything above actual expenses. The flat rate agreed on in advance, subject to adjustment after careful checking of costs was $3,000 for preparing the station and $2,000 a day from the time the Graf was here, being refueled and having its hydrogen supply replenished.

King's Cousin a Visitor.

Before the other passengers arrived by train a big Navy transport plane brought the Infante Alfonso, first cousin of the King of Spain, from Washington where he was flown as soon as he got here Saturday as a guest of the Government.

The passenger list for the journey included the following: Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer, and Lady Wilkins; Mr. and Mrs. John H. Creaves, of Great Kills, N. Y.; Lorenzo E. Baker, son of George B. Baker, banker; Stuyvesant Le Roy French, New York attorney; Burton Preston, importer, of Mansfield, a 70-year-old aviation enthusiast; Adelardo Novo, director of Diario Espanol, Havana; Mrs. Charles B. Parker, of Cleveland, who made the flight from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen last year; Fred M. Harpham, of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Co.; the Infante Don Alfonso, of Madrid; Emilio Herrara, chief of the Spanish air forces; Gonzales Sanchiz, of Seville; Dr. Jeronimo Megias, physician to King Alfonso of Spain; Gonzales Herroro, of Madrid; Mrs. Mary Pierce, of New York; Dr. Herman Badt, of the German ministry of transportation; Capt. Joachim Breithaup, of Berlin; Martin Wronsky, director of the Lufthansa, Berlin; Fritz Zwicky, of Zurich; George C. White, New York broker; Clarence Axman, New York insurance company official.

Elated at the prospect of starting the Graf Zeppelin on its eighth ocean crossing, Dr. Hugo Eckener told reporters tonight of his hopes for a regular mail and passenger dirigible service across the Atlantic to begin a year from next fall.

Three Ships Are Required.

"There will be three ships," he said, "big enough to carry 24 passengers and 20 tons of mail and freight. My idea is to have a sailing every five days from each side, but of course we shall have to have three ships to hold to such a schedule."

Asked what would happen to the Graf Zeppelin then, he replied:

"By that time she can be put in alcohol and preserved."

The course tonight, he said, would be to New York City and then northeastward over Long Island and out to sea.

"The weather is favorable," he said. "Up off Newfoundland there are strong winds of almost gale force; off the Azores there is calm. We shall steer a middle course, regulating our speed by getting into as much of the wind as we want. We shall be in Seville in 50 hours, stay there only an hour or two, and then proceed to Friedrichshafen, a flight of about 20 hours. The journey from here to Friedrichshafen is about 6,000 miles."

Dr. Eckener said that the dirigible's liquor supply had been replenished with the help of a Government order.

"It is medicinal liquor, you understand," he added with a wink. "I think there will probably be an epidemic of stomach aches very shortly."

Curtis Hopeful For Youngsters

Youth of Today Is Facing Best Era, Graduates Are Told by Vice President.

Huntington, W. Va., June 2 (A.P.).—Vice President Charles Curtis today told the 162 students of the graduating class at Marshall College that "There has never been a better period since creation than that which awaits the young man and young woman of today."

The Vice President delivered the commencement address. Honorary degrees of doctors of law were conferred upon the Vice President, Herbert Fitzpatrick, vice president and general manager of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, and Leonard A. Busby, Chicago attorney.

Reminding the class that the people of the United States are living at a "furious pace," and that the "minds of our experts and inventors are taxed indeed to add another mile to the schedule or to take another hour from the time table," the Vice President said the industrial, commercial and agricultural growth of the country "is a good demonstration of the faith the men of our country have in our future."

PRESBYTERIANS BAN CATHOLIC MARRIAGE

Northern Church Group Fails to Develop Debate on Sex Questions.

USE OF TOBACCO HIT

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 2 (A.P.).—By a small majority vote, the 142nd Presbyterian General Assembly of the United States of America today turned down a committee resolution that would have stricken from the confession of faith the section that denounces marriage between Presbyterians and Catholics.

The vote was taken on one of ten resolutions offered by the assembly's special commission on marriage, divorce and remarriage, which declared that the section referring to Catholics adds no weight to the marriage precautions but does add a means of offense.

The resolution evoked stirring debate in which sentiment seemed almost equally divided, and when the vote finally was called for, the opponents had a small majority among the 908 voting commissioners. A count was not taken.

Sex Debate Fails to Develop

The action was a victory for the Philadelphia presbytery, which had filed the only complaint against the commisson's report. An anticipated debate on the question of the frank terms used by the commission in discussing sex and marriage problems did not develop.

All the other resolutions were adopted. Several of them definitely placed the Northern Presbyterian Church on record as favoring proper enlightenment on the problems encountered by persons facing marriage. One of these resolved: "That the Presbyterian ministry be urged to preach a series of sermons on the themes of love, marriage, and the Christian home and allied subjects during this church year."

Another empowered the assembly to appropriate $1,500 toward the employment of a research secretary to go into the problem, provided other denominations do likewise, still another giving the commission authority to publish a symposium on marriage, this to include the best statements on the subject in the field of current literature. And during the coming year, the commission by vote of the assembly, will continue to function with an enlarged membership, which will include one physician, one social worker and one psychiatrist.

Marriage Is Redefined.

Marriage was redefined as a state "ordained of God for the honor and happiness of mankind, in which one man and one woman enter into a bodily and spiritual union, pledging each to the other, mutual love, honor, fidelity, forbearance and comradeship."

Today's session was one of the busiest the assembly has put in since it opened last Thursday. It acted on the report of its committee on Christian education, in which a move calling for public denunciation of the use of tobacco was forestalled, officially settled the turbulent affairs at Princeton Theological Seminary, and disposed of several overtures from the presbyteries.

An amendment to the Christian education committee's report was offered from the floor to include a statement against the use of tobacco.

Moderator Hugh Kerr, of Pittsburgh, reminded the assembly that tobacco was implied in another resolution calling for temperance in all things. The amendment was withdrawn.

The assembly also sidetracked an overture from the German West Synod, protesting against unscientific advertising, Sunday baseball and Sunday shows. The committee pointed out that these also were implied in resolutions urging rigid Sabbath observance.

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR POLICE, FIREMEN

it provides for those above the rank of private follow:

Police Department: Major and superintendent, $8,000; assistant superintendents, $5,000; inspectors, $4,500; captains, $3,600; lieutenants, $3,050; sergeants, $2,750.

Fire Department: Chief engineer, $8,000; deputy chief engineers, $5,000; battalion chief engineers, $4,500; fire marshal, $5,000; deputy fire marshal, $3,000; inspectors, $2,460; captains, $3,000; lieutenants, $2,840; sergeants, $2,600; superintendent of machinery, $5,000; assistant superintendent of machinery, $3,000; pilots, $2,600; marine engineers, $2,600; assistant marine engineers, $2,460, and marine firemen, $2,100.

At present basic pay of privates in the two departments is $1,800, and maximum pay $2,100. The Capper-Zihlman bill boosts basic pay to $1,900 and maximum pay to $2,400.

Under an amendment offered by Mr. Simmons and modified later, raises for privates will be based on length of service.

The scale will operate as follows:

The service of less than a year, $1,900; one to two years, $2,000; two to three, $2,100; three to six, $2,200; six to seven, $2,300; seven on up, $2,400.

As originally written, the bill gave the maximum salary of $2,400 to all privates with three years' service.

An amendment which increases the amount each employe must contribute to the retirement fund from 2½ per cent to 3½ per cent of his salary will materially cut into raises that are granted by the bill.

found dead in a wood between Chicago and Gary.

Chicago police started an active search for Capone and Moran machine gunners to prevent feared reprisals, although the lines of the war, if the gunnery presages such, are at present vague.

Detroit Police Prepare.

Detroit, June 2 (A.P.).—Police throughout the Detroit area stood ready tonight to cope with a renewal of the gangster warfare which broke out Saturday resulting in the slaying of five over the week-end.

Two suburban policemen and three other men, whose names appear on police crime records, have been slain. The police tonight said there was a connecting thread between all five killings.

The latest slaying was that of Morris Forsmith, 22, whose body was found at the Nine Mile road and Sunset boulevard at daybreak today, shortly after shots had aroused persons in the neighborhood. The killers escaped in an automobile.

Police saw in the slaying of Forsmith a reprisal for the slaying Saturday of Gaspere Scibilia and Samuel Parino in the rear room of a fish market at 2739 Vernor highway east. The automobile in which Saturday's slayers escaped is believed to be the one from which three men shot and killed Patrolmen Erhardt Meyer, 27, and Claude Lanstra, 24, in Grosse Pointe Park early Sunday. The officers were shot down when they tried to question the occupants of the car about a traffic accident which had occurred shortly before.

Blame Rumrunner Guard.

The police believed that the two officers were slain by rumrunners' guards who were awaiting a shipment of liquor across Lake St. Clair and did not want to be questioned.

The automobile which figured in the shooting, its body pierced by bullets fired by the two policemen, was found in the rear of the home of Sam de Mercurio. De Mercurio, his son, Frank, and Frank Salimoni, whose fingerprints were found on the automobile, are held for investigation. Sam Ricca, of Flint, to whom the license plates were issued and who is known to have come from that city to Detroit Saturday morning, is being sought.

From time to time during their investigation today the police were confronted by facts reminiscent of the shooting of Police Inspector Henry J. Garvin last January. The scene of Saturday's double killing was near the grocery where the police were told gangsters plotted against Inspector Garvin's life. Salimoni, it developed, was one of the men arrested for questioning regarding the Garvin shooting.

The three civilians who were slain had been arrested on various charges but had never been convicted. The prevalent theory was that the victims had in some way been connected with the rumrunning business.

GEN. H.M. LORD DIES; WAS HEAD OF BUDGET

Disbursed Huge Amounts in War Period as Director of Finances.

BEGAN CAREER AS CLERK

Brig. Gen. Herbert M. Lord, U. S. A., retired, second director of the United States budget, died yesterday in his apartment at the Woodley, Mintwood place and Columbia road.

Gen. Lord had been ill in bed for the past month, suffering from a nervous breakdown and complications which resulted from an attack of influenza about a year ago. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. It is expected that burial will be in Arlington Cemetery with military honors.

The general had been in poor health since his retirement, July 1, a year ago. This past winter he spent in Florida in an effort to regain his strength. He was succeeded as director of the budget by J. C. Roop.

Disbursed Huge War Sum.

As director of finance for the War Department, Gen. Lord disbursed more than $24,000,000,000 during the twenty months that this country engaged in the World War. When his military career ended he became director of the budget. He assumed this position July 1, 1922, succeeding Brig. Gen. and later Vice President Charles G. Dawes.

Gen. Lord was noted for his remarkable memory. He could quote figures involving millions without reading from manuscript. He spent long hours at the Treasury Building considering where money could be trimmed from the budget to keep within the stated figure.

He was born in Rockland, Me., in 1859 and was graduated from Colby University in 1884. He engaged in teaching but later turned to editorial work on newspapers in Rockland, Denver, Colo., and Cardiff, Tenn.

Was Clerk at Capitol.

He came to this city as a clerk at the Capitol. He was serving as a clerk of the House ways and means committee at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war. He entered the Army as major and paymaster of volunteers. He continued in this commissioned capacity until his appointment as budget director.

All his Army service was in connection with financial affairs. President Roosevelt called him to aid in the drafting of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and President Wilson selected him as disbursing officer of governmental aid for Salem, Mass., fire sufferers in 1914-1915.

With the entry of this country into the World War, he was finance officer of the quartermaster corps. Later he was made finance director. He was awarded a Distinguished Service medal for his handling of war finances.

General Lord's wife, Mrs. Annie Stuart Lord, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Van Rensselaer, were with him when he died. A son, Major Kenneth Lord, recently returned to Fort Leavenworth, following a visit to his father's home.

Casualty Hospital Benefit Set for Today, Moved Up to Monday.

The executive committee conducting the $50,000 drive for Casualty Hospital announced last night that the benefit day aboard the Convict Ship scheduled for today had been postponed until Monday.

The postponement was for the purpose of giving the women workers more time to dispose of 5,000 tickets. The committee expects to realize $1,000 by the benefit, Capt. H. C. Wooten, of the Convict Ship, having turned over the use of the ship for the benefit of the hospital.

Women workers will sell the tickets in downtown banks and other populous centers in the District this week.

METHODIST CLERGY SHIFTS ANNOUNCED

Baltimore Conference Ends With Special Honor for Bishop McDowell.

HOOVER'S WORK LAUDED

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 2.—The 146th meeting of the Baltimore annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church adjourned here this afternoon after Bishop William F. McDowell, of the Washington area, read the appointments. The conference meets next year at First Church, Baltimore, and it was voted today to ask the board of bishops that Bishop McDowell again be appointed to preside over this body. He retires at the general conference in 1932, and the Baltimore conference wishes to accord him special recognition next year.

The conference passed a resolution indorsing the statement of the board of bishops on prohibition and law enforcement and "requests our people to support earnestly President Hoover in his commendable efforts to enforce respect for all laws in the United States."

Charles C. Knapp, Hagerstown, candidate for deacon orders, who left the conference Saturday to visit his mother, not knowing that he was obliged to be present at the business session Saturday to be elected and received into the conference preparatory to ordination, was ordained today, when business was suspended to receive him.

Judge Flays U. S. Agents For Squaw Stool Pigeons

Indian Girls, Charged With Being Drunk, Tell Court They Never Tasted Liquor Until Hired by Federal Men in Undercover Service.

Omaha, Nebr., June 2 (A.P.).—Brought into police court today on a charge of drunkenness, one of two Indian girls told Judge Holmes that she had first tasted liquor after she had been hired by Federal officers to act as an undercover agent on her reservation.

The squaws were Betty McCauley, 20, and Bessie Others, 22.

Following the story told by Betty, Judge Holmes denounced officers accused by the girl.

"It is an outrageous, dastardly system which debauches these girls and makes stool pigeons and drunkards of them in the name of law enforcement," Judge Holmes declared from the bench.

The two girls were arrested at the termination of a drinking party with a number of men, whom they said they met in the corridors of the Federal Building.

Miss McCauley told Judge Holmes that she had never tasted liquor before being hired by "the boss farmer" of the northern Nebraska reservation to obtain evidence of bootlegging among Omaha Indians. She said she received $2 for every attempted "buy" and $5 for every purchase of liquor.

Judge Holmes ordered the girls turned over to Federal authorities and asked that the United States marshal investigate their case.

Swedish Cabinet Resigns in Defeat

Head of Peoples Party May Succeed to Premiership Held by Lindman.

Stockholm, June 2 (A.P.).—For the first time since October 1, 1928, Sweden tonight was without a ministry, following upon collapse of the Lindman government.

The Swedish cabinet, as a consequence of the government's defeat in both chambers of the Rikstag over the issue of a wheat tariff, tendered its resignation today. The cabinet has been of a conservative complexion, although without a moderate majority of either house of the legislature.

After summoning the presidents of both chambers and leaders of the opposition party, King Gustav asked the conservative ministry to retain control of affairs during the formation of a new ministry.

The government was headed by Rear Admiral Arvid Lindman, who once before had been premier. It was regarded as a possibility tonight that C. G. Ekman, leader of the people's party, might become the new prime minister.

COUSIN OF ALFONSO VISITS MIDSHIPMEN

Full Dress Parade Viewed by Spanish Prince at Annapolis.

COLOR RITES DUE TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 2.—The visit of a prince, the Infanta Don Alfonso, first cousin of King Alfonso of Spain, injected much ceremonial to an otherwise slack program of "June week" festivities at the academy. The prince was received with official honors and reviewed a full-dress parade of the regiment of midshipmen under escort of Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the academy.

The prince motored here from Washington and returned to the National Capital to fill a luncheon engagement, before returning to the Graf to take passage on the return trip to Europe.

The drill by the regiment was a final rehearsal of the dress parade booked for tomorrow afternoon when the interesting ceremony of presenting regimental colors will take place. The drill also had been arranged for the benefit of photographers and news reel picture men, and was enacted with all its completeness, except that the kiss, a traditional custom, was banned. The First Company won the honor of carrying colors for the next academic term. Midshipman T. B. Hughes, of Kansas City, the successful company commander, received the colors from the hands of Miss Alberta Ely, also of Kansas City, whom he is to marry soon after graduation on Thursday. When the colors were turned over, the rest of the regiment cheered the "color girl" and the winning company.

Open-Air Band Concert.

An open-air band concert tonight attracted hundreds of commencement week visitors. Dinner parties were much in evidence and many others took in the movies.

The three battleships of the squadron that will convey the complement of the new first and third classes of midshipmen on their summer practice cruise to foreign waters have assembled in the bay off Annapolis. Their arrival was marked by the transfer of squadron command, Rear Admiral Wat Cluverius, relieving Rear Admiral Harris Laning. The latter's tour of sea duty has expired. He now goes to command the Naval War College at Newport.

Four hundred and three midshipmen will receive their diplomas of graduation Thursday, it was announced today by the authorities of the institution. It was also announced that the Secretary of the Navy, Charles F. Adams, will deliver the principal address and present diplomas. It was hoped that President Hoover would be able to see his way clear to attend commencement festivities but pressure of business will detain him in Washington, it was announced.

Ratings of Graduating Class.

Twenty-three of the graduates will voluntarily resign from the service upon receipt of their diplomas, having availed themselves of the privilege recently extended by the Navy Department. Fifteen others also will resign because of physical disqualifications. Twenty-eight have elected to accept commissions as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps; four as ensigns in the Supply Corps of the Navy; the rest of the class with the exception of three will automatically be commissioned ensigns in the line of the Navy. The exceptional cases are dependent upon the outcome of re-examinations as to physical disqualifications. Approximately 150 of the graduates have signified their intention of taking up aviation, and will be assigned to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

"DRACULA," the Vampire Play in Three Acts by Hamilton Deane and John L. Balderson; from Bram Stoker's World Famous Novel. Staged by Clifford Brooke; scenery by Charles Squires.

CAST.

Marie (maid).....Marion Sterly
Jonathan Harker.....Walter Gilbert
Dr. Seward.....H. Dudley Lawsey
Abraham Van Helsing.....John Kline
R. M. Renfield.....Freddie Sherman
Butterworth.....Edward Poland
Lucy Seward.....Marion Wells
Count Dracula.....Romaine Callender

Jaded folks who have joined the Crime Club—and perhaps been rejaded by repetitious and overpreposterous thrillers—owe themselves a trip to the National this week. But not the weak-hearted boys and girls.

For "Dracula," that grand curdler distilled for the stage from Stoker's novel, about whch you know, and opened by the Natonal Players last night, is none of your quantity-production mystery affairs, with the butler thrown in as the eighth person you are supposed to suspect after the first scene. The whole unearthly idea is laid out before you at once, and thereafter you get your shivers from the weird working out of a supernatural problem.

And when the uncanny theme was unfolded last night at the opener by John Kline, just returned to the Players, he might have spoken in a whisper, the house was so compellingly stilled. From there in, the audience reaction came in grasps until the cast took a great round of applause at the end.

There are but eight characters in the piece, and while there's shivery stage-prop aid scattered pienteously throughout, the play leans heavily on the dramatic powers of the players. From madman to ashen-faced wraith, from half-possessed beauty to stricken father, they rallied to the task in heroic fashion, making the difficult piece most convincing.

Of course "Dracula" is about vampires, and it is generally known that they are blood thieves who claim their victims' bodies and souls. But their varied added powers are unfolded in the play by one who has been at this peculiar hijacking business no fewer than 500 years—the redoubtable Count Dracula himself. Therein Romaine Callender does a fine and altogether blood-chilling turn, replete with dread silent presence, dead voice and noiseless entrances.

Prof. Van Helsing (Mr. Kline) solves the laying of the grim ghost by most devious means, and is impressive in his acting of the part. He thereby rescues the heroine, done by Marion Wells with fine drama toward the end, when she gets her first real chance. But last night Freddie Sherman, transmuted from a juvenile to a maundering, fear-stricken madman, came very close to carrying off the honors with a splendid rendition.

No act opens without the weird baying of dogs, bats abound, ominous figures scale sheer walls, a gun-powdery fog envelops the stage, there is a coffin, and there are other things. But predominantly the acting of the Players carries off as blood-chilling a performance as the National has seen this season. If you like that kind it would be all wrong for you to stay away.

GAYETY

From chorus girl to star and rank as the most beautiful girl in burlesque within a brief space of two years is the swift pace set by that beautiful "dancing doll," Ann Corio. This idol of I. H. Herk's former Columbia, "pet" Broadway burlesque house, came to the Gayety Sunday to remain for a week.

More beautiful than ever, Miss Corio displayed the talent that has made several musical comedy producers seek her services. Listed as an added attraction, she appears to be a whole show in ehrself.

An elaborate Spanish set and a gorgeously gowned ensemble made an appropriate background for charming Bobby Nissen in leading her number. The pair of dancers, "Tiny" Huff, and Ryan are back again, more clever than ever. So popular are the comics Fryer, Moss and Costello that each was forced to indulge in an individual specialty, to thunderous applause.

CAPT. TRAIN NAMED HOOVER'S NAVAL AID

Commander of U. S. S. Utah Is Successor of Buchanan for White House Post.

VETERAN OF WORLD WAR

Capt. Charles Russell Train, commander of the U. S. S. Utah, has been appointed naval aid to President Hoover, succeeding Capt. Allan Buchanan, who will go to the Navy War College at Newport, R. I., as its chief of staff.

Capt. Train commanded the Utah when that ship took President Hoover on his preinaugural trip to South America. He was born in Annapolis, Md., September 18, 1879, and was appointed to the Naval Academy from New York in 1896.

In December, 1906, he was assigned to duty at the White House, and in 1909 he was made commander of the U. S. S. Sylph, the yacht of the Secretary of the Navy.

During the World War Capt. Train served with distinction in Italy, and was decorated by the United States and the Italian governments.

Following the war he was assigned to special duty in the Navy Department's intelligence office, but after a few months was made commander of the U. S. S. Chester, and later the U. S. S. Henderson. He was placed in command of the Utah in 1928. He has also served as naval attache at the American embassies at Rome and Vienna.

Capt. Train is expected to assume his new duties about June 10.

New Plagiarism Claim Is Filed Against Wells

Toronto, June 2 (A.P.).—Claiming plagiarism against H. G. Wells, English author, Florence A. Deeks, of Toronto, started action today asking $500,000 damages. Miss Deeks said matter from her book, "The Web," was contained in Mr. Wells' "Outline of History."

Her first claim was filed in 1922, but the taking of evidence in England and elsewhere and other processes of litigation have delayed the actual hearing. Mr. Wells and his publishers deny knowledge of the existence of "The Web."

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

A violation of the District traffic regulations that may have serious consequences is the practice of cutting corners. The driver who commits this infraction of the law is endangering not only himself, but others as well, by traveling in the wrong traffic lane.

A driver cuts corners when he makes a left turn without passing over or around the center of an intersection, as specifically enjoined in the traffic code.

Example: A driver reaches an intersection where there are several cars coming toward him. To avoid losing time by making a left turn properly and having to wait for oncoming traffic, he swings sharply into the cross street. It is a flagrant violation of the regulation.

19,813 WORLD-FAMOUS BEAUTY EXPERTS ADVISE PALMOLIVE!

"Harsh soaps can do more harm than good...we urge Palmolive"

R. PEZZELLA

beauty adviser to Washington's smart women

"YOUR skin is very delicate," this well-known beauty shop warns. "It must be carefully guarded to prevent wrinkles, coarsening, roughness. Harsh soaps can do more harm than good. That is why we urge Palmolive."

That is the opinion of the outstanding experts here as well as abroad. Indeed, more than 19,800 beauticians today recommend Palmolive Soap as the best home beauty treatment. They explain why.

Palmolive—vegetable oil soap

The vegetable oils in Palmolive Soap are soothing, gentle, yet penetrating. Olive oil soap lather has a unique cleansing action which leaves the skin refreshed and stimulated.

When you massage Palmolive lather into the skin it goes deep down into the pores, searching out hidden impurities, freeing the pores of accumulations which otherwise develop into blackheads, pimples, blemishes. For the bath, too, it provides a cleanser unequaled in efficiency and delicacy.

R. Pezzella is among the most important beauty experts of Washington, and this beauty shop is representative of the highest professional standards.

Graduate beauticians spend years learning the methods of their profession. They acquire scientific knowledge. They exchange ideas through beauty magazines, through associations, in schools. Such professional background means that their advice is expert.

Here is the way to use it

Massage a creamy lather of Palmolive into the skin with your hands. Work it gently into the pores for about two minutes.

Now rinse off the soap and with it the dirt, oil secretions, powder and rouge that otherwise clog the pores and make for an irritated, muddy-looking skin.

A final rinse with ice water is refreshing in the morning. It serves to close the pores, guarding them against the abuses of daily life.

Beauty experts know best

Today, those best qualified to advise you in matters of beauty are the professional beauty experts who have studied and practiced many methods of skin care. Their experience and training are your best guide in all problems involving good looks. Go to them for special treatments. Take their advice as to home treatments. Use Palmolive twice a day and the work of your beauty specialist will be made easier, the results will be better.

"Other soaps may irritate. Palmolive is safe and protective. Its vegetable oils make soap and water safe for all skin, however sensitive. We consider Palmolive a true beauty soap."

A TEST OF GOOD FAITH.

If the Senate coalition were really anxious to improve methods of tariff adjustment and not merely playing politics it would vote for the flexible provision as agreed upon in conference. This provision is what Democrats and Progressives have been demanding for many years. So far as the Constitution will permit, flexible limited revision "takes the tariff out of politics." This was the cry of the elder La Follette and his followers, repeated by Gov. Alfred E. Smith, and supported by Democrats and Progressives almost unanimously. But now, when the party in power agrees to the proposal, the Senate coalition finds in it all sorts of iniquities, and the opposition press is full of diatribes against it—notably, however, without any solid reason to support the criticism.

The new Tariff Commission will be composed of three Democrats and three Republicans, to be confirmed by the Senate. This is as nearly a bipartisan commission as can be devised, and its recommendations will be as nearly nonpartisan as could be hoped for. It is not to be presumed that President Hoover would attempt to "pack" the commission with men committed wholly to one tariff theory, although he would be warranted by the Democratic national platform in naming protection Democrats as well as protection Republicans. Leslie M. Shaw, that grand old warhorse of protection, insists that the Democratic national platform does not declare for protection, but for a "competitive" tariff—that is, a tariff that would subject Americans to foreign competition; but other clauses in the platform unquestionably commit the Democratic party to a policy closely resembling protection to manufacturers and workers. Many Democratic senators backslid from this platform, but it is possible that they will be corrected later by their States.

The Tariff Commission should be abolished altogether or be made to function usefully. The conference committee's plan ought to result in an effective commission. Greater scope is given to it for ascertaining differences in cost of production here and abroad, which will expedite conclusions. President Hoover is said to be convinced that the Tariff Commission under the new plan should be able to render a report and recommendation within 60 days after taking up an item. As he would expect to act immediately, the prospect of prompt readjustment of duties to meet changing conditions is held out as one of the best features of the new law. Most of the representations from foreign governments deal with a few items only, and inquiries into them can be made without difficulty. If foreign governments should refuse to furnish information on the costs of production in their jurisdiction the Tariff Commission can find other ways of equalizing the duty.

The good faith of Democrats and Progressives is challenged by the new flexible provision. They can not find fault with the principle without taking back all they have said in its behalf. The public will not be fooled by criticism of petty details in an attempt to kill the flexible provision. It is now a practical, effective and honest method of removing tariff injustices. Opposition to it is not only opposition to any flexible scheme but is obviously political obstruction, aimed against President Hoover.

"BETTERMENT OF THE FARMER."

Gov. Richards of South Carolina has addressed a letter to the governors of 27 States asking them to appoint delegates to a convention having as its purpose the formation of a nonpolitical alliance for the betterment of the farmer. The alliance would be the outgrowth of a recently organized State league of farmers and taxpayers which drafted a manifesto reading in part as follows:

Today the Federal land banks are foreclosing farm mortgages from one end of the country to the other. Today the Congress is adding to the tariff burdens of the farmer. The last reduction in general freight rates was six years ago. Today the interest rate and credit conditions are harder than for years. Today the national and local taxes still climb.

Remedy must come from an aroused public opinion. This awakening will result from a full understanding of the facts that it is our purpose to bring about by persistent pitiless publicity, for publicity of the truth will correct error and point the way to constructive building.

We call on a machine-mad nation, intent on its factories, its commerce and its banks, to consider the condition to which it has reduced its agriculture.

Gov. Richards mentioned the manifesto in his letter, indicating that he hoped the delegates to the convention would approve a similar declaration. But what good would it do? Has not the "machine-mad nation" already considered the condition to which agriculture has been reduced and, by creating the Federal Farm Board, done all in its power to ameliorate distress?

The farmer unquestionably has fallen on hard times. Land values were inflated during the war. Farm mortgages are being foreclosed from one end of the country to the other, but the reason is that values today are not sufficient to support loans, and it is the recipient of the loan who must always expect to shoulder the loss.

The position of the farmer will improve if the individual farmer follows the wise counsel of the Federal Farm Board. When agriculture improves its marketing machine, goes in generally for cooperation and, most important of all, learns to accommodate production to demand, so that surpluses will no longer be produced, its welfare will become secure.

So far as relief can be given by law, agriculture is receiving all consideration. But the farm question can not be solved by making laws. No law of Congress can overrule economic law, or transform an incompetent farmer into a competent one.

GEN. HERBERT M. LORD.

Brig. Gen. Herbert M. Lord, retired, whose death occurred yesterday, made and filled a unique place in the colossal machinery of the United States Government. As director of the Bureau of the Budget under Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover he perfected the system which was installed under the direction of his predecessor, Gen. Charles G. Dawes. The head of the budget was the personal representative of the President in all matters pertaining to estimates for the executive departments and independent establishments. These estimates run into billions every year. It was Gen. Lord's duty to "cut the cloth to fit," and the skillful manner in which he discharged his duties attracted national attention and admiration. He saved millions by lopping off extravagant and unnecessary estimates, and at the same time was instrumental in increasing the efficiency of all the accounting bureaus.

It was a peculiarity of Gen. Lord that the size of the figures he dealt with made no difference whatever in his methods. He was as vigilant in lopping off $1 of extravagance as he was in lopping off $25,000,000. His chief pride was in detecting and drying up the tiny rivulets of loss, whose combined current would have swelled into a torrent. His grasp of figures was so tenacious and accurate that he did not need to make notes. "Round numbers" were his abomination. Whether he quoted the estimates of a great department or the saving in lead pencils he gave the exact amount, to a cent, with a slight emphasis upon the cents that invariably clinched his argument. He raised thrift to its proper place in the science of government. The famous "economy administration" of President Coolidge owed much of its effectiveness to the untiring labor of Gen. Lord. A man of less tact and humor would have aroused intense animosities, but Gen. Lord was successful in holding the friendship and cooperation of officials whose estimates he was compelled to revise.

The United States was never served more faithfully than it was served by this sturdy son of Maine. He leaves an enduring reputation, and will always be gratefully remembered by those who knew him and his work.

COPYRIGHT REVISION.

Having conducted exhaustive hearings and conferences in which many interests presented their views and made known their requirements the committee on patents last week introduced in the House a bill providing for the general revision of the copyright laws and the amendment and consolidation of the various acts having to do with copyrights. The bill is drawn specifically to permit the entry of the United States into the International Copyright Union. The new legislation makes three important innovations. They are: (1) Automatic copyright, by which the copyright is conferred upon the author upon creation of his work, a right so limited by various provisions of the bill as to be made a privilege; (2) divisible copyright, which permits the assignee, grantee or licensee to protect and enforce any right which he acquires from an author without the complications incident to the old law; (3) international copyright, which enables American authors merely by complying with the provisions of the act to secure copyright throughout the important countries of the world without further formality.

The present copyright laws were enacted in 1909. Since then, says the committee report, they have become antiquated, cumbersome and wholly inadequate by reason of a great number of new and approved trade practices that have sprung up and new mediums of expression, such as the motion picture and the radio. Today authors commonly dispose of their copyrights piecemeal—the movie producer acquiring the motion picture rights, a magazine the magazine rights, a publisher the book rights and foreign purchasers the foreign rights. Under the present law, however, the division of a copyright can be accomplished only through agreement among the assignees, and the securing of a foreign copyright is a difficult process.

American copyrights are granted for a period of 28 years, with privilege of renewal for a similar period. The new law would provide for copyrights extending through the life of the author plus an additional 50 years. This provision, together with the provision for "automatic copyright," would enable the United States to become a member of the international union. In that event, American authors would be protected in 40 leading countries without further formality.

While the creator of an original work is entitled to the most generous protection so that he can reap full benefit from his labors, it is not the individual author alone who demands revision of the copyright laws. Industry demands revision. The theater, the motion picture industry, the radio, the publisher, the advertiser and the manufacturer insist that their business security and the security of those whom they employ depend to a greater or less degree on the adequacy of the copyright laws. It is highly desirable that the code of 1909 be revised at an early date.

SOVIET RUBBER SCHEME

From the London Times.

The plans for the rapid creation of Soviet rubber plantations and the production of home-grown rubber on a large scale in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics have miscarried, and the officials of the "caoutchouc trust" are being accused in the Soviet press of counter-revolution.

The caoutchouc trust was established by a special decree last year after Soviet scientists had experimented for three years in the laboratory with some wild shrubs which had been found growing in the sands of Turkestan. The scientists had reported that the shrubs were rich in caoutchouc latex of high quality, which would enable the Soviet Union to "emancipate herself" from the rubber capitalists of the West. Orders were issued that during the spring of 1930 this new state trust should plant 10,000 hectares (24,710 acres) with the newly discovered rubber shrub; the news has now been published at Moscow that the trust has been able to lay down no more than two hectares (4.9 acres) of rubber plantation and that the planters are not quite sure whether they have collected the proper shrub or a similar one which makes good progress but yields no rubber.

Prof. Bosse, who is being made one of the chief scapegoats, has published his explanation of the failure of the plans for this year in Za Industrializatsiya, the official organ of the supreme economic council, of May 16. He states there was still much laboratory work to be done when the trust was ordered to begin planting; but officials in other departments were unsympathetic and work was consequently slow. The process of analysis, for example, required that the substances delivered to the laboratory should be ground in special mills. They had no such mills and were, therefore, obliged to canvass the state food shops for the loan of coffee mills, as there were none for sale. They found a few mills at last, but although they were idle, the officials would not lend them, for they said: "We may have coffee again some day, who knows? And then we shall need our mills."

There were further difficulties (said the professor) on the planting grounds. Not only were the planters apt to cultivate by mistake the wrong wild shrubs native to Turkestan, but they had destroyed the fruits of his (the professor's) expedition to Mexico in search of a rubber plant which might thrive on Soviet territory. He had brought back seeds of the Mexican parthenium argentatum shrub (which yields guayule rubber), and had started a small plantation in Turkestan. When he was absent the official left in charge "weeded" the plantation and, through deficient botanical knowledge, destroyed all the guayule plants in favor of a weed, which throve well under his cultivation, but was quite useless for the rubber industry.

Za Industrializatsiya adds that the planters have difficulties with the native nomads, as these have "suffered from trickery on the part of the Soviet cooperatives and have become mistrustful."

FATHER'S PRAYER.

Dear Lord, I do not ask of Thee
Always to smooth the path for me,
But grant me strength enough to bear
Whate'er my portion is of care.
Now for my children's sake, I pray,
Help me to walk in wisdom's way.

Let me not blunder. To the end
Their happiness I would defend.
Grant me to earn their gratitude;
To understand their every mood
And through the labyrinth of youth
Guide them to everlasting truth.

Dear Lord, pray Thee, make of me
The father Thou would'st have me be,
Let me not hastily condemn
Or ever ask too much from them,
But when their little feet have strayed
Of me let them be unafraid.

God grant me this; all else above
That I may keep my children's love
And lead them on to all that's good
Of manhood and of womanhood
That I, when childhood years have flown
In their success may find my own.

You Won't Develop a Fondness for Walking in a Community of Lazy Men.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

EVERY schoolboy knows about the Golden Age of Pericles. Greece was in her glory.

Socrates and Plato, Euripides, Aeschylus, Democritus, Anaxagoras, Aristides, Aristophanes—men like these, who laid the foundation of modern culture, walked the streets together.

The genius of a race was in full flower.

Do you wonder why one generation produces so many brilliant men when the generations that precede and follow it produce so few?

Come down to more recent times and observe how consistently genius flowers in clusters.

In the time of Johnson and Boswell, enough wit and wisdom to civilize a generation gathered about a tavern table.

Thomas Gray and Oliver Goldsmith were there, along with Gibbons and Burke and Sir Joshua Reynolds, and their contemporaries included such men as Fielding, Cowper and Sterne.

A century later another harvest was ready and the world was enriched by the works of Carlyle, Tennyson, Coleridge, Lamb, Dickens, Ruskin, Thackeray, Macauley, Browning, Wordsworth, Darwin.

Great names, these, and their greatness inspired contemporaries on this side of the Atlantic—Bryant, Poe, Morse, Emerson, Holmes, Hawthorne, Whittier, Longfellow, Lowell, Thoreau, Whitman.

These were for the most part writing men, but the rule that genius appears in constellations holds good in other callings as well.

The age of Brahms was the age of Mendelssohn, Liszt, Schumann, Bach, Beethoven.

The greatest names in sculpture and painting belong to the age of Leonardo and Michelangelo.

The contemporaries of Columbus were navigators and explorers greater than he.

Our own generation has produced more scientific wonders than all the ages that preceded it.

What is the explanation?

Have you ever noticed how stupid you feel among dull people, and how your mind quickens in brilliant company until you are astonished by your own readiness of wit?

That is the whole secret of it.

The sparks fly when steel strikes steel.

Ten men equally mediocre in present attainments become ten brilliant men when their wits clash to generate new ideas.

Before colleges were established, young men traveled to distant cities to talk with great men.

Bok did something of the kind and thus found much of the inspiration for his success.

If you can't meet the world's greatest, you can make contact with men wiser than yourself.

Youth seldom acquires a passion for cleanliness by associating with unwashed men.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

REFILLING THE BRAIN

If your brain doesn't give you the desired results it may soon be possible to improve it by cooking. Mr. O. H. Caldwell, of the American Electro-Chemical Society, predicts that inside of ten years all big business offices will have chambers into which tired executives can step and take radio-electric treatments, which will stimulate their intellects.

• • • •

Successful experiments have been made. Slow thinking men and women have had their brains baked by the use of high frequency radio tubes and have come out thinking in high speed. A few moments in specially prepared chambers in 1940, and a business man who didn't have a bright idea in his head will emerge too smart even for Professor Einstein to follow.

• • • •

"What's on for this afternoon?" Mason P. Swidge, industrial magnate, may ask wearily of his secretary.

"There's that big conference on snow-plow prices," his secretary may inform him.

"Good heavens!" the brain-fagged executive will moan. "I forgot all about it and I feel so mentally blah I'll be out-talked from the start."

"Shall I prepare the Noodle Stimulator?" his secretary will ask.

"By all means," will be the immediate decision. "And set it for only three minutes today. The last time I went in there I think the old brain was boiled too hard."

• • • •

It's a grand idea. There should be a brain-cooker in every home. Imagine one of those bridge parties at which the impossible Mr. Geedge, with the game in hand, gets to thinking about his laundry bill, tomorrow's weather and his stenographer's eyes! He plays the hand all wrong and gets set.

• • • •

Quick, Watson, the radio tubes!

His partner can ask for a little recess while Geedge is shoved into the bean-refilling station. He will be given everything the General Electric Co. has for a few moments, and walk briskly out mentally fit to take on Whitehead, Work and Lenz. He will know where every card is. Of course, after an hour or so, when his brain begins to get cold and empty again, it will be necessary to boil him again.

• • • •

And think of what the brain-boiling room will do for the fellow who has been slaving five hours on his income tax and has reached the stage where he writes "Mrs. Sarah J." opposite the question, "Losses by fire or storm?" and scrawls "$234.56" opposite the query. "What is your full name?"

He will simply put aside the papers and totter into the little room where gray matter is fricasseed to a nigh state of efficiency. When he comes out the income tax will be a set-up for him.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

President Hoover's Gettysburg Address Struck the Right Note—All Loyal Citizens Should Subscribe to It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The address delivered by President Hoover at Gettysburg was a fitting tribute to Lincoln and an expression of high ideals of government that should stir the hearts of all loyal Americans, regardless of party affiliations.

Mr. Hoover emphasized the importance of a spiritual bond between the people of this great Nation, realizing the necessity for common ideals in its unification. He called for the constructive thought on the part of its citizens, apart from blind prejudices that tend to stir up strife. In this utterance he sounded the keynote of the success of democracy.

All fair-minded American citizens interested in the welfare of their country will rally to the support of the principles he so earnestly propounded.

May all citizens be led to arrive at the true conclusion with regard to our national problems, unhampered by prejudices and passions, so that this glorious Nation of ours shall grow in strength and honor.

Nationals Start West With Fine Prospects for Capturing the Gonfalon.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Starting on their first trip through the Western circuit, with a pennant-winning standing of .643, it will be one of the worst guesses I ever made if the National Baseball Club does not wind up the season in a blaze of glory like that of the fall of 1924.

Major league baseball sets a splendid example of uniform efficiency to men in all walks of life. Perhaps there are other clubs in the American League whose brand of so-called mechanical baseball is as classy as that of the Griffs; there may be several who have the edge in batting. But my faith in them is based on their will to win, on the will to win of their smoke-ball manager. Even should they return from the Western invasion in third or even fourth place there would be no occasion to lose heart on the part of any one who is careful to keep in mind the frequent ups and downs of pennant contestants.

It may be interesting to note that the first invasion of the West by a Washington club occurred 63 years ago, in baseball's infancy. In 1867 the Nationals, which was their name then as now, made a famous tour, "the most extensive on record up to that time," we are told.

The line-up of the 1867 Nats were Government clerks and they defeated the Capitol Club of Columbus, Ohio, by a score of 90 to 10; Harry Wright's Cincinnati Red Stockings, by 53 to 10; Louisville, 82 to 21; St. Louis, 113 to 26; Chicago Excelsiors, 49 to 4. Their only defeat was at Rockford, Ill., where the Forest City Club won, 29 to 23.

It is hardly likely that our Griffs will equal this record of five wins and one defeat for a club standing of .834 on its present trip. But I think they will return still among the foremost contenders for the gonfalon, notwithstanding the attitude of some dubious cash customers whose dismal obsession is that "they are playing over their heads."

HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

Public Library Deals Out Too Much Modern Fiction, Says Georgetown Man.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Public Librarian Bowerman, in his 1932 estimate, asks for an appropriation of $704,372. Much of this sum is required for the establishment of additonal branch libraries. These should, of course, be provided in so far as they may properly serve the needs of the public.

But it is my belief that in the conduct of the public library entirely too much attention is paid to the circulation of fiction. This is especially true of the branch libraries. The chief reason for the establishment of the branches is that they may supplement the educational activities of the schools in various neighborhoods. Therefore, as I look at it, the books on their shelves should be adapted to the requirements of old as well as young students. I would have each one fully stocked with American history, and the fiction would consist of a suitable supply of the classics, modern as well as ancient. Ephemeral literature would have no place in them, but strictly speaking, they would be real centers of scholastic research and cultural improvement.

Far from this being the case, the branch libraries furnish a supply of "the latest fiction," pot-boilers as well as best sellers, much of which is not far from trashy, and as likely as not tainted with modernist nastiness.

Even if the fiction were all of high quality, I would not think it expedient to give it first place in the circulation of a public library. In fact, I would make the expenditure for the latest fiction comparatively small. Dr. Bowerman asks for $335,372 to pay the library personnel in 1932 in addition to a book fund of $90,000. I do not object to the expenditure of hundreds of thousands for the literary enlightenment of the public. But it seems unfair to the taxpayers to spend their money merely in order to gorge the masses on an indiscriminate output of modern fiction.

KING GEORGE NAMES ROYAL HONORS LIST

Sir Esme Howard Among Group Receiving Baronies on Eve of Birthday.

GIRL FLIER REMEMBERED

London, June 2 (A.P.). — King George will celebrate his 65th birthday anniversary tomorrow, and on the eve of the celebration numbers of subjects have been gladdened by inclusion of their names in the birthday honors list.

The list covers men and women in all professions, but the name that perhaps will capture the public imagination is that of the girl aviator, Miss Amy Johnson, who flew alone in a tiny airplane from England to Australia in 19 days. She was made a Commander of the British Empire.

An honor that will give pleasure to thousands of playgoers is the knighthood awarded to Henry Alfred Lytton, famous for his roles in Gilbert and Sullivan operas.

Sir Esme Honored.

Sir Esme Howard, widely known in the United States as former British Ambassador at Washington, was awarded a barony. Others receiving the same honor were Noel Buxton, minister of agriculture, and Henry Sanderson Furniss, noted educator of Oxford.

There was much speculation before announcement of the list as to the probable recipients of the order of merit, which in some respects is the most coveted of all the honors although it carries no title. The three appointed to this high dignity were Samuel Alexander, philosopher, writer and teacher; Montague James, known to students of Eton, of which he is provost, as "Monty" and also known as a writer of ghost stories in moments of relaxation, and George McAulay Trevelyan, England's leading historian.

Boyce Becomes Baronet.

Sir John Simon, famous as head of the Indian Commission which bears his name, becomes "Knight Grand Commander of the Most Exalted Order of the Star of India."

Among others honored were Arthur Stanley Eddington, astronomer, given a knighthood, and Frederick Royce, motor car manufacturer, made a baronet.

As for the king himself he will observe his anniversary quietly. Owing to his recent attack of rheumatism he will not attend the one public ceremony that will mark the day—the "trooping of the color." The royal salute will be taken in his stead by his uncle, the veteran Duke of Connaught.

Cuba Geographic Group Plans Honor for Byrd

Havana, Cuba, June 2 (A.P.).—The American Embassy here today was trying to get into communication with Commander Richard Byrd to notify him that another laurel had been bestowed upon him because of his contributions to international science.

The honor to be given to Commander Byrd comes in the form of a gold medal presented the explorer by the National Geographic Society of Cuba. The medal was given Ambassador Harry F. Guggenheim for delivery to Commander Byrd.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THERE is one extenuating fact in connection with the 1928 bolt of Senator Simmons down in North Carolina, for which he is being put severely on the pan just now.

The Democrats who went down the line for Smith in that great fight have by and large felt more bitter towards Simmons than they have towards Heflin. For one thing Simmons is a much more important figure in the Democratic party than is Heflin and his bolt meant more.

And also Simmons' offense is considered graver because after Smith's nomination at Houston, party influences went to him and begged him, not to support the ticket, but to just keep quiet.

This was all that was asked of him. He was not asked to go back on any of his preconvention statements against Smith but just keep quiet and say nothing one way or the other.

• • • •

THAT seems to have been a very simple request, too, under the circumstances when the Democratic leaders knew the very backbone of their party was facing a crucial test.

And Simmons sought to abide by it. He did not promise that he would, but the leaders were given reason to hope that he would.

The senator tried hard to keep his mouth to himself, but finally his burning up inside would stand no further check, and he spoke, which is believed to measure the margin by which Smith lost the State.

Here is where the extenuating circumstance comes in.

Back in the preconvention days, the New York Smith crowd was anxious to get into the South. It had made an excellent job of sewing up delegates from the Eastern and Western States.

But the South furnished a possibility of a convention deadlock. It must be broken into and its menace removed.

• • • •

THEN came the first of one of the many blunders that the Smith forces made in their ignorance of the rest of the country. They kept begging Simmons to give them his North Carolina delegates, but Simmons refused.

Whereupon, and probably in desperation as much as anything else, they said in their cocksure way, "All right, we will come into the State and take the delegates."

And they did. At least, they went into the State. They tore the machine to which Simmons had devoted a lifetime in building, to pieces. They did not, however, get the delegation. They simply strewed political wreckage all over the State.

Simmons never forgave them. He has not done so yet.

Dominican Politician Assassinated With Wife

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, June 2 (A.P.)—Virgilio Martinez Rena, former secretary during the presidency of former President Vasquez, was assassinated last night at his home in San Jose Mata. His wife also was killed. It was reported here that Martinez Rena was beheaded.

The minister of justice and the attorney general have been ordered to proceed to the scene of the crime to investigate.

SOLDIERS TAKE HAND IN PESHAWAR AREA

England, in Surprise Move, Sending British Troops to Troubled Center.

GREAT CONCERN IS FELT

Bombay, June 2 (A.P.).—In the Peshawar area beset by a three-fold threat of civic resistance, wild tribesmen and communism, Britain today made the outstanding move in the strategy that is advancing her arms across the map of India.

British troops, without warning to the communities, marched into two villages of the northwest frontier, gateway to the Punjab, Charsadda and Prang. It was "Tommy Atkins'" turn to try his hand at stamping out the Reds who for weeks have kept that district in a turmoil and aided the attacks of the other two disturbing elements.

Eight Leaders Arrested.

They arrested eight leaders of the agitation and established martial law throughout the areas. Peshawar City itself today was quiet, as was most of the rest of India, in nearly every center of which Mahatma Gandhi's "Day of Silence" was as usual made the order of Monday.

Salt raiding came to a virtual end with yesterday's en masse attack upon the Wadala depots, in which police and military charged 15,000 volunteers and 150 or more persons were injured. There were no reports of the use of firearms. The officers belabored the raiders with their bamboo staves. Troops stood by, but did not charge the raiders. This kept the casualties to a minimum.

Some of the Congress members were turned back, others broke through the embattled salt zone and made off with handfuls of the contraband product.

Rainy Season Ends Raids.

Today the coming of the rainy season ended salt raids.

The raiding was succeeded by a far more serious menace—tax resistance. To meet its eventualities, the government put forth a new regulation providing grave penalties not only for refusal to pay taxes, but for inciting to tax disobedience.

Government agents began at once to attempt tax collecting but in most cases found the natives had departed from their lands. The situation was viewed with great anxiety, as continued maintenance of the tax strike would seriously hamper government revenues at the end of the year, it was pointed out by fiscal observers.

Revolt of Vast Proportions

The government today was forced to realization that the Gandhi civil disobedience movement had reached vast proportions, even in the increased number of wearers of the Gandhi hats. In cities a goodly majority of the populace wear the hats and take part in demonstrations.

The increasing boycott on British goods similarly is accepted as a sign of growing solidarity among the supporters of the Mahatma.

It was indicated there was serious doubt in official circles that the government longer would be able to control the situation without free use of military forces in aid of the civil police.

72 Are Sentenced

A public meeting was held during the day on the esplanade at Maidan to celebrate Sunday's "victory" of the volunteers at Wadala. Speakers appealed to the volunteers to enlist in defiance of the viceroy's new ordinances against picketing, boycotting and non-payment of taxes.

A batch of 72 salt raiders, out of 800 awaiting trial at Morli, today were sentenced to three months of rigorous imprisonment.

Cleveland, June 2 (A.P.).—The sixth triennial convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers opened here today with an address of welcome by Alvanley Johnston, national grand chief. At the same time, the women's auxiliary of the brotherhood began similar sessions.

Among the problems that will be considered by the brotherhood during the three weeks of the convention will be a six-hour day and the problem of unemployment of men who have been displaced by consolidations and efficiency improvements.

Other business before the convention will include the election of two assistant grand chiefs. G. W. Laughlin, Washington, and A. O. Smith, Chicago, incumbents, are candidates for reelection.

The women's auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Mary E. Cassell, grand president, had on its program the reports of committees on funds for orphans' pensions, aged and dependent persons and for general relief.

Fire Insurance the Bulwark of Trade

The volume of trade in the United States is estimated at more than 80 billion dollars annually. Probably 90 per cent of this is transacted on credit.

The underlying safeguard of this credit is Stock Fire Insurance, with more than $150,000,000,000 constantly at risk in the protection of burnable property in this country.

This background of $150,000,000,000 of protection against disaster makes commerce on its present gigantic scale possible.

Few indeed are the activities of the home or of business that are not benefited directly or indirectly by the stabilizing effect of Stock Fire Insurance and the security that it affords.

Stock Fire Insurance is the silent partner in every enterprise—the Bulwark of Trade. It has rendered its service at a cost which on the average has constantly declined for more than twenty years.

Hoovers Give Fete in Honor Of Dr. Olaya

Women's Press Club Plans Luncheon Today for President-elect.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE President and Mrs. Hoover gave a dinner last evening at the White House in honor of the President-elect of Colombia, Senor Dr. Don Enrique Olaya, who is rounding out eight years of service in Washington as his country's minister by being entertained as the guest of the Nation.

Senora de Olaya has been in ill health for several months and her physicians did not think it advisable for her to undergo the strain of official entertaining arranged for Dr. Olaya, so she remained in Baltimore, where she has been staying for several weeks. But Senorita Maria Olaya shared honors with her distinguished father at the White House dinner last evening. Senorita Lucia Olaya also accompanied the President-elect of Colombia from New York to Washington yesterday, and the two girls will go with Dr. Olaya to Chicago at the close of his official visit to the Capital.

Mrs. Hoover's recovery from a trying period of invalidism was signalized by her presence at the dinner last night. It was the first formal function which she has attended since she wrenched her back in a fall many weeks ago. With a few exceptions, the company asked to meet the president-elect of Colombia was offical in its make-up.

The Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes were guests and attendance from the Cabinet group included the Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon; the Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, the Postmaster General and Mrs. Brown, the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams (Mrs. Adams is still on the sick list); the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Wilbur, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde, the Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont, and the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Davis, with the Acting Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr.

Others present were Representative and Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum, Mr. George Akerson, Secretary to the President, and Mrs. Akerson; Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Francis White, Mr. Jefferson Caffery, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, Dr. Jose M. Coronado, Secretary of the Colombian Legation, who is to be Charge d'Affaires after the departure of Dr. Olaya; Dr. Juan Lozano, Mr. Genero Payan, Mr. and Mrs. Dana C. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman Philip, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Southgate, Miss Susan L. Dyer, Mrs. Stark McMullin, Col. Campbell Hodges and Commander Alexander Macomb. Miss Dyer and Mrs. McMullin are staying at the White House.

The orchestra from the Marine Band played through the evening. Th White House aids, in full dress and uniform, contributed a ceremonial note to the festivities. And the drawing rooms were lavishly decorated with early summer flowers. On the table, with its beautiful service of silver gilt, its epergnes of fruit and its tall golden candelabra, were low mounds of pink roses, snapdragons, deutzia and maidenhair fern.

Tonight Dr. Olaya will be honor guest at a dinner to be given by the Minister of Panama and Senora de Alfaro. This will round out a busy day, for in the afternoon the president-elect is to visit Annapolis and at 1 o'clock he will attend a luncheon to be given at the Willard in his honor by the Women's National Press Club. He will be accompanied to the luncheon by his military and naval aids and members of his suite. Dr. Coronado will also be a guest. The party will leave for Annapolis immediately after the close of the luncheon.

Because of their impending departure, Mr. and Mrs. Massey have been widely entertained during the last few weeks. They will leave Washington on June 17.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson will return tomorrow from a week-end spent at Highold, their country estate at West Hills, South Huntington, Long Island.

Vice Consul And Capital Girl Are Wed

Miss Cutts Becomes Wife of Mr. Wainwright in Epiphany Church.

The marriage of Miss Alice Cutts and Mr. John Tillotson Wainwright, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Epiphany Church, followed by a reception at the Washington Club, with a distinguished group of guests in attendance.

Miss Cutts is the daughter of Col. Richard Malcolm Cutts, U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Cutts, who came from Haiti, where Col. Cutts has been commanding the First Brigade of Marines, in order that their daughter might be married in Washington, their old home. Mr. Wainwright is the son of Mrs. Clement Biddle, of Philadelphia.

The church was decorated with palms, ferns and feathery smilax, with quantities of white blossoms, an effective setting for the summery gowns of the bridal party and the guests.

The Rev. Dr. Ze Barney Phillips, rector of Epiphany, officiated. Miss cutts was given in marriage by her father. Mrs. George Grant Mason 3d, had come from her home in Havana, Cuba, to be one of the bridesmaids, and the group also included Miss Dorothea Morgan, Miss Ethel Butler, Miss Nancy Pearson, half sister of the bridegroom; Miss Anne Bartol, of Boston, and Miss Virginia Jones, of Ardsley Park, N. Y. Miss Sallie Hews Phillips was maid of honor.

The bridegroom had as best man his stepfather, Commander Clement Biddle, U. S. N., retired. Most of the ushers had been students with him at St. Paul's School and at Princeton University. They were Lieut. Richard Cutts, U. S. M. C., brother of the bride; Mr. Hunt Dickinson and Mr. William A. Tucker, of New York; Mr. Paul F. Griffin, of Lock Haven, Pa.; Mr. T. S. Matthews and Mr. Louis Cuyler, of Princeton; Mr. Barclay Scull, of Philadelphia; Mr. H. H. Hackney and Mr. Sydenham Page, of Baltimore, and Mr. Roger Sumner, of Baltimore.

Col. Cutts and Lieut. Cutts were in uniform, as were many Marine officers from Quantico.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin antique, fashioned on princess lines, with the long circular train cut in one with the skirt. Her veil, mounted on tulle, was of rare old lace which had been worn by her grandmother on her wedding day, and Miss Cutts had a pearl necklace which was presented by Chancellor Livingston to a Wainwright bride and which had been worn by succeeding generations of brides in Mr. Wainwright's family. A shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley completed a charming ensemble.

The bridesmaids had chosen frocks of blue organdie made on princess lines with flaring circular skirts, and carried bouquets of yellow roses and delphinium. Miss Phillips wore a yellow organdie gown of similar design and carried a sheaf of delphinium in varying shades of blue. All wore natural color straw hats trimmed in pastel shades of ribbon.

At the Washington Club, where Col. and Mrs. Cutts and Commander and Mrs. Biddle received with the bridal party, the drawing rooms were decked with summer flowers. Bride's roses were used on the tea table, at which Mrs. John T. Myers, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Edward Palmer, Mrs. Smedley Butler and Mrs. ZeBarney Phillips presided. Mrs. Cutts had on a flowered chiffon gown trimmed with chantilly lace, and a black hat, and Mrs. Biddle's gown was of black and white chiffon, worn with a black hat.

Mr. Wainwright, who is in the foreign service, has recently been appointed vice consul to Havana and will take his bride to the Cuban Capital to make their home. For her going away gown the bride wore an ensemble of beige crepe, collared in summer fur, and a small beige hat.

Col. and Mrs. Cutts will return to Haiti for another year, sailing on June 23. Since their arrival in Washington they have been staying with Brig. Gen. and Mrs. John T. Myers.

Welby Carter, and Mrs. Andrews, to which fund the descendants throughout the country have contributed.

Mrs. Andrews' contribution, by request of the committee, took the form of a portrait, which will be unveiled by little Carter Randolph Andrews. Philip-Louise Has Further Reductions —in effect this week. Some of the most attractive models are marked down to $19.75. Hats have been repriced, too, so that if you go in today or tomorrow you are sure to find something charming at much less than the price you had expected to be obliged to pay.

There are new arrivals constantly, so that if you are not particular about having sale prices, you can be pleased anyway.

Lovely Pictures of Beautiful Children

—are always a joy to see. You will admit, however, that no matter how engaging the subject, unless the photograph is cleverly made and finished with artistry it means very little.

If you want a real treat, stop by Underwood & Underwood's and see the windqw of portraits made with their famous double camera. This camera works so fast that the most fleeting expressions are registered as though by magic.

The pictures in the window were made of two children taken together and singly, in a garden setting. Underwood & Underwood make up a special book of pictures of your child. If there is variety in the poses and expressions chosen, the book becomes the most cherished possession in the family. You can find out how much the book costs, and will be surprised to see how moderate the figure is. I know this, that you do not pay for the finishing of each additional negative, when you buy an entire book of pictures. If that is not clear to you, anyone in Underwood & Underwood's will be glad to explain it to you.

The out-of-doors presents a very lovely background now. Have the children and their pets photographed together in the trees and flowers of the parks or gardens. You will wonder at the result of the double camera which Underwood & Underwood features for children. By all means, do stop by to see the window display. It is worth your while.

Order Your Next Sandwiches

—from The Pastry Shop, 806 17th street. Call Met. 1568. There are seven varieties of sandwiches, each more delicious than the other. The charge is 45 cents a dozen or $3.25 a hundred. The sandwiches from the Pastry Shop are so well known that it is hardly necessary to say anything about them. If it should happen that you have never eaten them, call up and order some, just to give yourself a treat.

Young, Inc., Offers Hats at Reductions

—and such reductions! Twenty-five per cent! Yes, really! Go in and choose several hats during this wonderful event. You will find any number of hats that will be useful through the summer and fall, wherever you are.

There are special prices in effect on the little sport suits found at Young's too. You know the knit-wear suits with sweaters or delicately exquisite blouses which Miss Oyster exhibits at Young's, 1143 Connecticut Ave.

A slender sports frock with all-around box-plaits in skirt is youthfully smart. To achieve the low-flared silhouette the plaits are stitched part way.

The long-waisted bodice has a belt slipped through slashed openings at the normal waistline. The buttoned pockets are sportive.

It has the popular modified suntan neckline, that is so conservative for general sports occasions.

Style No. 8271 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. The medium size takes 2⅞ yards of 39-inch material.

It lends itself beautifully to the smart cotton fabrics as pique prints, striped men's shirting, and printed handkerchief lawn

Pastel flat washable crepe silk, linen in sports and sheer weight and shantung are chic.

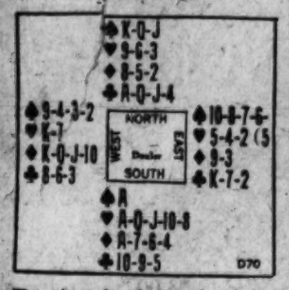
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



The above hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South bid one Heart, West, two Diamonds and North ended the auction with two Hearts.

Had the hand been played at Contract, South would have started with a bid of two Hearts and North would have jumped to four.

In the play West led the King of Diamonds. South won with the Ace, led his Ace of Spades so as to unblock dummy's Spade honors, and then led a Club to try the Club finess. It lost, and East returned his partner's Diamonds. West taking two Diamond tricks. After that, West took one more trick when South finessed his trumps, so the adversaries saved game.

If you had held South's cards, could you have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY

When playing to trick 3, Declarer should have seen that if he had the hard luck to find both the King of trumps and the King of Clubs in the wrong adverse hands, he would lose his game by playing in the above manner as the adversaries would win two Diamonds in addition to those two Kings. Of course if both Kings were located in exactly the opposite hands in which they happened to be, a grand slam would be practically assured; but a sure game never should be risked for an uncertain slam, especially in Contract where the slam premiums are not allowed unless the slam is bid.

Declarer, leading to trick 3, should have refused the Club finesse; he should have won with dummy's Ace and led the two top Spades, discarding thereon two diamonds. Played in that way he would have been practically sure to limit his losses to one Club, one Diamond and one Heart. Of course a successful Heart finesse would pick up an extra trick.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"GEMINI."

If June 3d is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

A likht-hearted, romantic and eventful time is predicted for this date. Beware of Cupid's arrows, however, as it is not a propitious time for a betrothal. There are health warnings, also, especially in regard to food dangers.

Children born on this June 3d will have a versatile nature, and although they will not be especially gifted, they will be able to do a number of things well. They will be all round good students, and very diligent workers. They will be inclined to take life rather seriously, and will not take much interest in sports.

You are not a sleepy sort of person, you stride about the world thinking crisply. At times your thoughts are embarrassing. They are too terse and concrete. You believe in calling a spade a spade, and you do not mind shocking those who are afraid to express themselves so freely. As a result you are either very popular or very unpopular. You can not be accepted with indifference. The meek and timid usually admire you very much, and they probably are thrilled by your seeming bravery and dare-devilry.

It can not be said that you ever dislike being in the limelight, and you play up to your audience very cleverly. You are extremely quick-witted, and good at repartee. You fortunately think of the right thing at the right time, and not the next day. Your tongue at times is pretty sharp and your sarcasm very biting. You are not on intimate terms with "tact." There are also times when you talk too much and you bite your tongue with regret.

You are naturally industrious, and rather frugal, but not stingy. You often make great personal sacrifices in order to do something generous for another. It would be difficult to find a selfish hair in your head. If you marry, you will never fall into the "well of loneliness" and despair into which cynics tell us the married inevitably fall.

Successful people born June 3:
1—William Knabe—Manufacturer the Knabe piano.
2—Henry James — Theologian — father of Henry James, the novelist.
3—King George V of Great Britain.
4—William Shakespeare—Writer.
5—George Burton Adams—Professor of history at Yale.
6—Thomas Ball—Sculptor.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

An extremely elegant and unusual evening ensemble showing a white crepe dress and black taffeta coat and turban, black paillette necklace and black gloves with rhinestone trimming. (Courtesy of Blanche Lebouvier, Paris.)

Paris, June 2.

THEY call them "little dresses." And what a delicate charm they have, these dresses that are both practical and distinguished, and provide that suitable transition between the elegant frock for special afternoon occasions and informal dining, and morning or street wear of the more tailored variety.

Every couturier shows them, and faced with a need of giving them a name rather than just saying vaguely, "Oh, yes, a little afternoon frock," or something like that, they began to be called just simply "little dresses."

They are crepe, they are satin, they are fine reps masquerading under various new names such as "wool taffeta." They are touched discreetly with hand-made collars and cuffs, pleats, tucking, empiecements, and tiny nervours which are being called "leaf ribs" these days.

All in all, the little dress can be worn in the morning, especially if one's morning is going to include luncheon and an indefinite stay out for the day. And it can be worn for dinner and even for an informal theater. Altogether, one does well to have quite a selection of "little" dresses in one's wardrobe.

And then in the fragrant steam of my cup of jasmine tea I seemed to see the patient, tired and kindly face of the little old saleswoman who had been for 25 years at the same Maison de Couture as she said to me, "Why not spend your money and be lovely while you may, mademoiselle? There will be plenty of years when you will have nothing but the money, nothing to do with it."

* * * *

It isn't only the starving artists in Paris that can do clever things on canvas. You, too, can do something awfully clever and attractive with Dah-ray's directions and a different kind of canvas, and a needle threaded with bright-colored raffia or wool. Collars and cuffs to wear on your sweaters or sports blouses—or chic sports bags, or berets or bonnets—all of canvas, and all embroidered with a simple and cunning little square stitch like grandmother used to use on her canvas sampler.

* * * *

If you want to give yourself some real Paris chic, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that tells you how to make these tricky things.

Whenever I think of evening frocks I think of Blanche Lebouvier. Wouldn't you, if you saw example after example of her art like the one I illustrated for you today? The dress is of white crepe, with a strass buckle at the belt which is at the normal waistline, and the coat of black taffeta very discreetly trimmed in ermine—and in the typical Lebouvier manner there was a black taffeta turban, a lovely black paillete neckline, and o-o-o-o-o-o, long black gloves with decorated cuffs of strass.

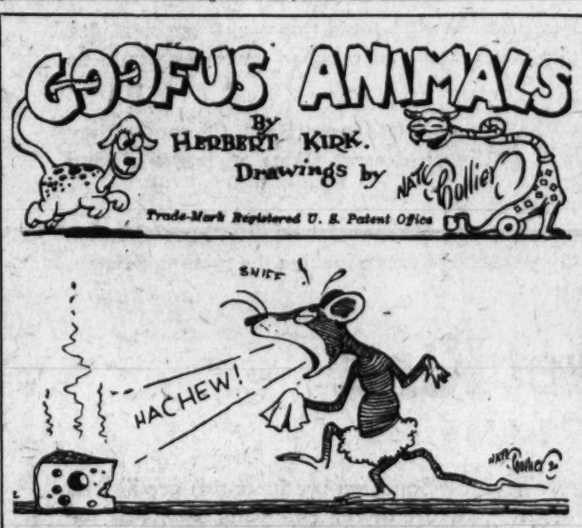
You'll enjoy the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post each week.

Au Revoir!

MACARONI SAUSAGE LOAF.

1 package elbow macaroni.
10 small link sausages.
2 medium onions, sliced.
½ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 cup hot water.

Parboil the macaroni for 9 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water to which one tablespoon salt has been added. Drain. Place sausages in frying pan and cook until half done. Drain on brown paper. Put in buttered casserole a layer of the macaroni and on this lay five of the sausages. Cover with the layer of sliced onions, season with salt, pepper and dot with butter. Repeat with second layer. The top layer should be of onions. Pour water over all, cover and bake half hour in a moderate oven. Serve from the casserole.



The Goofus Mouse
In Goofusland the Goofus Mouse
Will never enter any house
Because she greatly fears to find
A piece of cheese of any kind,
For if, by chance, she should smell cheese
Her knees get weak—she starts to sneeze —
In fact, I'm sure we may believe her
That sniffing cheese gives her "cheese fever!"

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

KINDLY let me know if it is possible to start a pineapple from the top. MRS. A. S.

Yes. Plant the top in rather sandy soil. Keep it very moist.

Please tell me why the inclosed leaves continue to fall. They seem to fall more in the winter than in the summer, when the plant is in the open. MRS. FRED G.

No doubt the lack of sufficient fresh air is the reason why so many leaves fall from your plant. The condition of the leaves also indicated too much water and insufficient sun.

Please tell me how to care for the plant of which I am inclosing a few leaves. I give it water every day and keep it in a window where it receives sun for only a few hours a day. Would you advise me to transplant it at this time? Please tell me how to care for an azalea. Is bonemeal good for either of these plants? For which class of plants is leafmold a tonic? MRS. McD.

The fronds of your fern were covered with scale. Better remove the leaves which are badly affected, and in order to prevent a return of the insects spray the foliage once a week with cold, soapy water. Unless the plant is potbound do not disturb the roots. As soon as the weather permits, set the pot outside in a shady location. A fern requires light but not sun. The care you give your azalea depends on the variety you happen to have. The large-flowered Belgian varieties are not hardy and must be cared for in the house in winter. The small-flowered pink Japanese azaleas are quite hardy and can be kept in the open. Bonemeal is one of the best fertilizers for general use in the flower garden, because it contains not only nitrogen, but phosphorus. It is useful for all sorts of flowers and may be scattered over the soil so that the latter is white. Cultivate it into the soil and the value of the fertilizer will last throughout the season. There is no danger of applying too much. Leafmold is rich in nutritive principles and, therefore, used for such plants as ferns and other plants having fine roots of the fibrous sort.

Please tell me how to care for an impatience sultana. Something seems to be causing the leaves to drop off. The leaves are seemingly attacked by an insect which leaves them sticky and covered at times with a fine web THOMAS L. M.

The impatience sultani require a rich soil and plenty of heat, sun and fresh air at all times. Water the plant every day and once each week spray the foliage with cold, soapy water. Your plant has evidently been attacked by red spider and perhaps also by the mealy bug. A forceful spray of cold water will soon cause the red spider to depart and soapy water will rid the plant of the mealy bugs.

Please tell me how to overcome aster blight. MARION F. T.

One of the greatest authorities on aster propagation tells us "to put the seeds in cheese cloth and soak for 30 minutes in warm water. Then dissolve fifteen grains of bichloride of mercury in one quart of warm water, soak the seeds for 30 minutes in this solution and rinse in clear water. Dry the seeds in a cool and shady place." Keepp in mind the fact that bichloride of mercury is poison and, therefore, must be kept out of the reach of children or other irresponsible persons.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

GLOVES AND PROTECTION.

MEN wear tall hats and carry canes as a method of announcing to the world that they do not dig ditches or do any other kind of manual labor. This is rather generally accepted as the reason why men inconvenience themselves with these impediments. Because gloves came to be associated in the public mind with plug hats and canes they share some of the prejudice and have had some difficulty in coming into their own.

The workingman needs gloves, either to protect himself or for the better doing of his job. The teamster knows this. He says gloves him a better grip on the reins. Perhaps wearing gloves has saved many a teamster from eczema due to horse dandruff. The chauffeur knows that he can drive better with them. Perhaps wearing them saves chauffeurs and aviators from some skin troubles caused by greases, fumes and solvents.

Bricklayers wear them to save their hands from trauma. Many workingmen wear them, and many more should do so. Grocers have grocer's itch and sugar itch. Bakers have baker's itch. Both should wear gloves whenever and wherever they can. Photographers have eczema due to chemicals. Housewives have skin troubles of the hands, some of which they could avoid by wearing appropriate gloves. Laundresses are quite subject to soap and water eczema. Farmers suffer from weather skin, sometimes called sailor skin, and out of this some skin cancers develop. Machinists get skin troubles caused by grease and cutting oils. Printers suffer from skin troubles due to inks. The surgeon once paid tribute to bichloride and formalin dermatitis, but he freed himself when he commenced wearing gloves in order to make operations safer.

The hands are credited with spreading influenza and carrying contagion generally. Physicians overcome this personally by wearing gloves. Others should follow their example. Hands polluted with lead are responsible for much of the lead poisoning. This is true of several other trade poisonings.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.

Vionnet! Imported Print! are Magical Words

● Why magical? A dress after Vionnet is always a work of art! An imported print is fresh, distinctive, adapted to sophisticated cutting.

● Here's an utterly ravishing frock to prove it! Tender spring flowers on a light navy background...finely pleated skirt, finely pleated peplum, finely pleated frill on the fischu collar! Two criso posies at the waist. A slim dress, with the charm of Paris. $85.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

THE colorful and convenient slang of the movies is probably as extensive and as expressive as that of any known industry, business, art or racket. New terms to express old thoughts are invented daily by the imaginative crowd that seeks a quick and handsome living in the West Coast land of promise—and promises.

I understand that the meaty saying, "the picture has everything in it but the kitchen stove" sprang into being and instant use because some one was trying to convey the same idea in the words, "every known recipe and tested device for exciting the basic emotions has been embodied, &c."

Individual performances, I am told, are invariably described as "marvelous" or "lousy," depending entirely upon the self-appointed critic's attitude toward the performer.

"You're just the type" and, by the same token, "you're not the type," contingent upon whether you are or not, had an obvious origin about the casting offices. The term "to chisel" and its noun, "a chiseler," although now in national use, originated on the lots and has to do with begging, borrowing and stealing, singly or in combination.

The word "scram," a diminutive of "scramble," is said to have been employed first by Bessie Love in a picture something over a year ago. Another odd one that is rapidly growing into common use is "carrying a blotter." A "blotter carrier," as I understand it, is a Hollywood pessimist who knows all about what's the matter with the movies.

Like many others, I have wasted a lot of time on those birds!

This is another week when the newsreels are especially prolific in subjects that get a little out of the beaten path. Those that I have seen, so far, have afforded me a considerable kick by picturing Senator Hiram Johnson punching his right fist right at your very nose in a vicious denunciation of the Naval Limitations Treaty, so spontaneous that he had to sneak a couple of peeks at his notes; Gus Sonnenberg catapulting himself into the midriff of a discouraged gladiator who probably wasn't hungry any more that night, and a flock of lambs being heartlessly separated from their mamas and bleating most pathetically about it.

In fact, I should call it a toss-up between the lambs and the gentleman from California!

And speaking of what the current cinema discloses, Monta Bell has added an appreciable zest to his picturization of "Young Man of Manhattan," at the Palace, by incorporating into the movement of his narrative frequent shots of national sports events that are bona fide.

Among these are a flash of the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden, the Army-Navy football game, a world series game in St. Louis, Mo., the spring training camp of the New York Yankees, and, at the very beginning, the finish of the first Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philadelphia.

The ostensible scenes of the Manassas Man and the Great Grammarian in action are something less authentic than the spectacle of Joe Humphreys rendering the decision transferring the world's heavyweight championship to the new title holder, or the even more fluid spectacle of the cash customers taking a soaking out in the ringside seats and liking it!

Mr. Bell's rainstorm is intensely and inundatingly realistic and recalls vividly that Johnny Payette, Eddie Sherwood and I would probably have been no wetter diving about in the limpid waters of the Schuylkill or the Susquehanna than we were walking back to the new Warwick Hotel from the Sesqui Stadium, which, as it comes back to me now, that night was located about half a block this side of Bangor, Me.!

If there are any building contractors in the audience, it may be of interest that building permits have been issued by the District for the construction of a balcony in the Warner Brothers' Avalon Theater, formerly the Chevy Chase, and the installation of a refrigeration plant at the RKO-Keith Theater, nee B. F. Keith's.

Well, boys, you can now heave that sigh of relief that you've been holding back all spring—there won't be any more 25,000 crowds at the ball yard for a couple of weeks, at least!

But then, there's that pesky Ringling-Barnum Circus!

TEMPTING TO ANY APPETITE

EVEN when no other dish appeals, there is one energy-making food that never fails to captivate finicky appetites. It's Mueller's Macaroni. Made from a selected blend of farina—the heart of the wheat—this tasty food is most healthful. It cooks up delightfully light and fluffy. Easy to digest and cooks thoroughly in nine minutes. Avoid overcooking, though one or two minutes more may be allowed for extra tenderness. Your grocer has Mueller's or can get it for you.

Mueller's Macaroni Products are ideal foods for children. They contain essential elements for sturdy growth.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was tired, nervous and run-down. I saw the advertisement and decided to try it because I was hardly able to do my housework. It has helped me in every way. My nerves are better, I have a good appetite, I sleep well and I do not tire so easily. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other women for it gives me so much strength and makes me feel like a new person."—Mrs. Lena Young, R. # 1, Ellsworth, Maine.

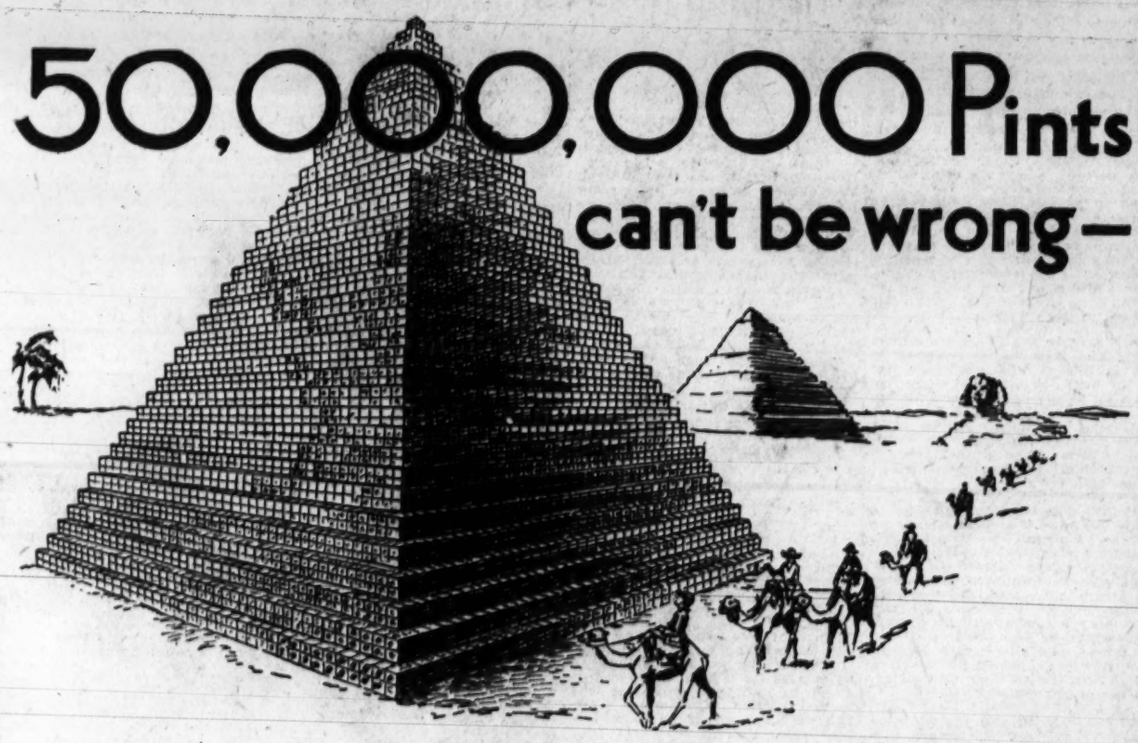
50,000,000 Pints can't be wrong—



IF the 50,000,000 pints of The Velvet Kind Ice Cream which will be sold this year were built into a pyramid, and that pyramid were on a desert, what caravans of parched travelers would be attracted!

And they would make a pyramid of some size, too—those 50,000,000 frozen pints. Of course they will never reach a desert, but a large portion of them will reach dessert plates on tables around which a particularly pleased company sits.

The point is, those pints must invariably have special excellence, special quality, specially fine flavor, and smooth texture, or there never would be 50,000,000 of them, for like the famous Frenchmen, that many packages of ice cream couldn't be wrong.

The Velvet Kind

points with pride to an unequalled record, in making from finest Southern products this prodigious amount of the world's highest grade ice cream, for the pleasure of the cities and towns of the Southern States—offering varieties of flavors and a sanitary method of packaging which would have been impossible a few years ago except at prices which would have been prohibitive.

The systematized work of Southern Dairies, developing and democratizing a big business under competent organization guidance, has been profitable in many ways to many hundreds of Southern communities.

Not the least of these has been the always even production and distribution of this wonderful ice cream.

ALLEGED GEM THIEF SAID TO BE DEALER

New York Police Head Avers Fifth Avenue Jeweler Is Member of Band.

BONDS FIXED AT $25,000

New York, June 2 (A.P.).—One of the men arested last week in a police round-up of a band allegedly dealing in stolen jewels on a Nation-wide scale was identified today by Police Commissioner Mulrooney as a Fifth Avenue wholesale dealer.

The "Jack Rosen" arrested with five other men and a woman on charges of receiving stolen property, in reality is Alexander Friedman, with offices at 535 Fifth avenue, Mulrooney said.

The commissioner's identification followed closely upon fixing of $25,000 bail for Rosen, or Friedman, and William J. O'Connor, Buffalo fight promoter, in Supreme Court, in pleading for admission of Rosen to bail his lawyer said his client had no previous record.

Mr. Mulrooney charged that Friedman was under indictment in connection with the theft of $200,000 in securities from A. E. Frank & Co., Wall stret brokerage house, last August.

Much Jewelry Identified.

Presentation of evidence against Rosen, O'Connor, George Cole, James W. Watson and Mrs. Hilda Carter was begun today before the grand jury, while victims of jewel thefts continued to call at police headquarters and identify part of the loot as their property.

Among those claiming part of the stolen jewelry today was Mrs. Louis Kaufman, wife of a Cleveland banker. She picked four pieces out of the $1,300,000 exhibit and said they had been taken from her hotel room in Hollywood, Fla., lasst February.

Previously Mrs. L. W. Herman, of New York, had identified part of the jewelry as having been stolen from her in Miami, Fla., last winter.

Fortune in Jewels Recovered.

Three hundred thousand dollars' worth of the jewelry was recovered with the arrest of Rosen and the four others, while $1,000,000 was taken from safe deposit boxes of Robert Nelson, alleged "fence" for jewel thieves.

Commissioner Mulrooney admitted today that none of the Nelson jewelry had been identified as stolen. Nelson was released in $25,000 bail last week.

Watson and Cole are being held without bail for Hot Springs, Ark., authorities who believe the pair may be implicated in a slaying and robbery there last year. Authorities are willing to admit Mrs. Carter to bail, but few efforts have been made in her behalf.

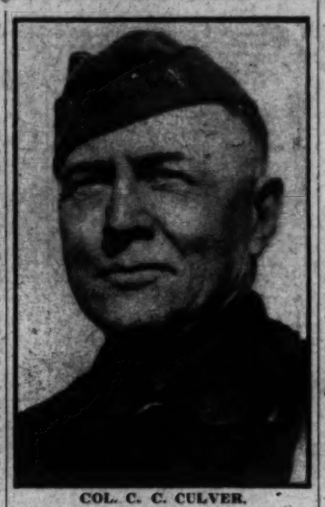
Former Wife of Nephew Of Taft Arrives in Reno

Reno, Nev., June 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Helen Draper Ayer, who obtained a divorce in Reno in January, 1920, from Walbridge Smith Taft, nephew of the late President, has returned to Reno for a three-month residence and taken the palatial Giraud home.

Mrs. Ayer, whose husband is Nathaniel Ayer, Boston financier and banker, came here from Santa Barbara, Calif., where she maintains a winter home. She brought with her nine servants, cars, and two of her favorite horses. Mrs. Ayer is a daughter of George A. Draper, wealthy Boston manufacturer. A brother was former governor of that State and another brother was a former Ambassador to Italy.

Flier, 58, Ends 1,100 Hours As Solo Airman Since 1922

Colonel Proves Flying Is Not Altogether for Young Men.



COL. C. C. CULVER.

n the surface there was nothing remarkable when Col. C. C. Culver climbed out of the pilot's cockpit of an Air Corps plane at Bolling Field yesterday after a cross-country flight.

To Col. Culver, though, it was an event of more than passing moment. For it marked the end of his 1,100 hours of flight as a solo pilot since his fiftieth birthday.

As a matter of fact, Col. Culver learned to fly after he had passed his forty-third year, proving that aviation is not altogether the young man's game or that Col. Culver is young in spite of his years.

The 1,100 hours finished yesterday began after Chritsmas ay, 1922, when Col. Culver reached the half-century mark. To accrue that amount of flying time he has had to fly an average of 150 hours a year, or more than three times the 48 hours required by the Army to qualify for flying pay.

His efficiency as a pilot is attested by the fact that, in addition to his Army rating of airplane pilot, he holds a Department of Commerce transport license authorizing him to pilot light and heavy single engined open planes, and multi-engined open and closed planes.

Col. Culver enlisted in the Army during the Spanish-American War. October 14, 1915, he was detailed for aviation duty. He actually began flight training at North Island in December, 1916, shortly before his 44th birthday.

After the World War he attended the Army War College here. Col. Culver lives at 3420 Garfield street northwest.

Three Homes Lost As Forests Burn

Several Thousand Acres Swept by Flames in Minnesota.

Duluth, Minn., June 2 (A.P.).—The first serious forest fires in northern Minnesota this spring broke out today, destroyed three farm homes, threatened scores of others and burned over a territory of several thousand acres. Three of the five major fires were in the immediate vicinity of Duluth, a fourth was burning near Cramer on the north shore of Lake Superior, while one large fire was reported in the Superior National Forest.

Tonight, with the winds diminished, the fires were reported as under control, with large crews of men guarding against spreading of the flames.

Capital Man Is Left $2,000 by Friend's Will

John W. Brewer, of 1722 E street southeast, received notice yesterday that he had been left $2,000 under the terms of the will of George H. Yaglee, of Mansfield, Pa.

Mr. Brewer met Mr. Yaglee in 1923, and they became fast friends. Mr. Brewer was also acquainted with the family of Mr. Yaglee. J. B. Kelly, Mr. Yaglee's attorney, notified Mr. Brewer of his friend's death June 26.

CONFEDERATES OPEN SESSIONS AT BILOXI

Three Thousand Tents Are Pitched Near Homestead of Jefferson Davis.

BOY SCOUTS AID FEEBLE

Biloxi, Miss., June 2 (A.P.).—Biloxi today became the bivouac for "Johnnie Reb" and his sons and daughters, on the eve of the fortieth reunion of the United Confederate Veterans.

Aged and feeble, the remnant of the glorious army of the South came into camp leaning on the shoulders of the army of the future, the Boy Scouts of Dixie.

Three thousand tents have been pitched on the outskirts of the city not far from the homestead of their leader, Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederacy.

But not all of them arrived on crutch or with halting tread as, for example, R. M. Chappel, of Austin, Tex., who came in "cutting the pigeon wing" to the tune of the fiddle of D. D. Page, blind veteran of Austin.

As proof of the bridging of the gap between the North and South, Theodore C. Casseau, of Rochester, N. Y., commander of the Sons of Union Veterans, came among the early arrivals to join John Ashley Jones, of Atlanta, commander of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, in honoring the valor of the lost cause.

Tomorrow night at a massive joint session of all Confederate organizations, that master of oratory, John Sharp Williams, and the modern seaman, Admiral T. P. Magruder, warriors both, will address from the same platform the soldiers of yesterday. Other speakers of prominence will give tongue to honor the Stars and bars, now unfurled only as a symbol to add prestige to the Stars and Stripes.

GREEN VEGETABLES FOR THE BABY.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

Green vegetables, cooked and mashed through a strainer, should be started in the sixth month and given once a day at the 2 p. m. feeding just before the nursing or with bottle feeding. Give spinach three times a week as it is the best vegetable for the baby. On the other days he may have carrots, chard, new green peas, string beans, young beet greens, or cooked lettuce. Begin in the sixth month by giving one teaspoonful of mashed vegetable once a day and increase the amount fairly rapidly to one tablespoonful by the seventh month, two tablespoonfuls by the eighth month and three tablespoonfuls by the ninth month. From this time on give two to three tablespoonfuls daily. When the baby is 1 year old he may have also summer squash, Hubbard Squash, celery, beets, cauliflower, kale and cabbage.

Cook leafy vegetables in a saucepan for ten to fifteen minutes without the addition of any water except a little for cabbage. Stir frequently to prevent burning. When soft mash through a strainer.

Root and stalk vegetables chopped fine, such as carrots, celery and beets, should be cooked until soft in as little water as possible in a double boiler covered to prevent the evaporation of water (30 to 45 minutes). The length of the cooking time depends on whether the vegetables are young or old. When soft put through a sieve or strainer. The water in which vegetables are cooked contains valuable minerals and should be served with the vegetables.

JOHNSON SATISFIED AS TEAM OPENS PLAY IN WEST

Pegler

NEW YORK, June 2.—The football diplomats of the Army and Navy still attack one another through third parties, like hostile Ambassadors in a neutral capital doing their best to have one another sent home.

First, while the Navy was still merely contemplating the row with the Military Academy, a naval officer made an effort to break up the old Army-Notre Dame rivalry. As Army officers have explained this move to me, the naval officer convinced an official of the Notre Dame football organization that Notre Dame ought to open the controversy over the three-year rule, whereup Yale would present the same demand, to be followed by the Navy.

The Navy was trying to line up allies for the fight before repudiating a written treaty and declaring war, but when Notre Dame's letter arrived at West Point the commanding general of the time considered the source and referred it back to the president of the university, who promptly disavowed it.

Yale never was drawn in, and the Navy finally decided to start the fight alone, relying on diplomacy to win adherents.

Both Sides Play at Diplomacy.

Since then both sides have been at the game of diplomacy in a manner very reminiscent of the activities of the British and Germany Ambassadors in Washington before 1917.

Two years ago, during a winter meeting of the Western Conference in Chicago, a delegation of Army officers happened along on no particular business and won an important diplomatic victory. The Western Conference, whose prestige gives it the same position in this situation that the United States occupied between Great Britain and Germany, by gentle, social suasion, was induced to take a stand justifying the Army's position.

The gist of the ruling was that the conference schools would not discriminate against the Navy if the Navy wished to use football players for three years regardless of any previous varsity experience they might have had. This had the outward appearance of a concession to the Navy, but, of course, the Navy had no wish to play men of more than three years total experience. It was much as though Von Bernstorff had persuaded the Wilson administration to recognize Great Britain's right to torpedo German shipping in the Irish Sea in 1917.

Big Ten Repudiates Previous Decision.

Now the Western Conference has repudiated this decision and voted to forbid games with any school that does not observe the three-year rule in the intercollegiate acceptance of the term. Here it might be explained that the Army does observe a three-year rule, but only to the extent of barring plebes or fourth classmen from varsity teams. The conference three-year rule means three years total varsity experience and this law, subject to the transfer rule against itinerant athletes, can reduce a player's varsity service to two years or one. Army's three-year rule permits of a theoretical total of seven years varsity play in the case of a player who comes from some nonconforming college with four years' service behind him.

I have not read of the presence of any representatives of the Navy at the recent deliberations of the Western Conference, but the effect of this latest decision is so detrimental to the Army's cause in the controversy that I strongly suspect the Navy of executing a counter coup. It is not always by rising up in meeting and making a speech that an ambassador persuades the government of a disinterested third nation to favor his country's position, nor is it necessary for a football diplomat to show himself in a meeting of the Western Conference to obtain an indirect, negative ruling against his diplomatic opponents.

Army Holding Out for Navy's Humiliation.

The new decision of the Western Conference places the Army in a defensive position again, at a time when the Army's diplomats, while still as charging and interesting as ever, are losing some of their prestige, but they were asking for trouble. The fact is that the Army's representatives, Col. Whipple and Maj. Phil Fleming, have been holding out for nothing less than utter humiliation of the Navy when they might have made peace without loss by proposing an informal game to be played this fall

SHARKEY CONFIDENT, CALM WITH CAREER'S PRIZE CHANCE NEAR

Gob Apparently Aims to Make Most of Chance for Title.

Appears Able to Control His Emotions; In Top Shape.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

ORANGEBURG, N. J., June 2 (A. P.).—Ten setting suns from the night he will climb into the ring in the Yankee Stadium to battle Max Schmeling for the heavyweight championship, Jack Sharkey is coasting down the home stretch of his conditioning campaign, calm and confident that the title will stay as it always has in America.

For Sharkey this is the greatest test of his career. He fought and lost to Jack Dempsey when all the fistic world still lay before him. He "tin-canned" through two vital struggles with Johnny Risko and Tom Heeney with a shot at Gene Tunney's title resting on the outcome. Now he is up there for the third and most important time.

Apparently the Boston sailor man, a strange fighting creature of moods and temperament, now realizes at 27 that championship opportunities will come to him only just so long. He is winding up a training period that has been singularly free of bickerings and mental outbursts that have left him either in contrary or foolishly emotional moods for other crucial struggles. With him, age, in a fistic sense, seems to be bringing wisdom.

Sharkey Has Developed Physically.

Physically, Sharkey is immense. Years of constant training have padded his shoulders and back with rippling, powerful muscle. His legs and thighs are thinner and speedier than ever before. His eyes are clear, his weight just where he wants it at 199½ pounds.

But it is the mental change that is most impressive in this sometimes morose, sometimes smiling, always puzzling pugilist. He seems matured and settled. He is calmer and his vision broader. Occasionally he can listen to advice and take it. He seems to have nailed down the check rein on his emotions.

The bombastic sailor, of course, doesn't doubt for a moment that he will grind Schmeling to pup.

"I won't lose my noodle against Schmeling," he said today, "I've been practicing for five weeks against my sparing partners to hold myself in and fight my fight no matter what happens. When they hit and hurt me I just stick them plenty with left hands.

Could See Dough Floating Away.

"Sure I cried after I beat Phil Scott. So would you if you came as close as I did to losing $200,000 in purses. After he claimed foul I stood in my corner and I could see that dough floating away over the heads of the crowd.

"Then when they brought us together again I threw a left hook at his body so hard he said 'oof' before the punch hit him. Then he hung on the ropes and yelled 'I cawn't go on. I cawn't go on.' No wonder I cried.

"I've got no plan for fighting Schmeling. That's the bunk anyway. In the dressing room Al Lacey and I will talk it over. Then I'll go out and win.

"Say, can this Schmeling take a punch on the chin? Can he take a sock in the body? Does anybody know? And remember this—he's never fought anybody like I'll be in there on June 12."

Lack of Sparring Mates Forces German to Rest

Endicott, N. Y., June 2 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling took an enforced rest today from his training grind because of lack of available sparring partners. The German heavyweight will start boxing again tomorrow when a new set of spar mates will arrive in camp to replace those worn out by Max's punching.

Schmeling did his customary road-work before breakfast and spent the remainder of the day on the golf links. He turned in a card of 110 for the morning 18 holes, breaking his own course record, and set out in the afternoon to do even better.

Fears of Loss by a Foul Quieted by Schmeling.

German Says Body of Sharkey Will Be His Target, However.

By MAX SCHMELING
(As told to Jimmy Powers).

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 2.—I have never fouled any one in my life and I have enough control over my punches to feel certain that there will be no headlines the morning of June 13, "Schmeling Loses on a Foul."

You see I fight in a constant crouch with my head bent over and my arms down. This led one critic to state he thought in the course of fifteen rounds I might accidentally drop one downstairs, as the saying goes.

It is true that I am going to direct as vicious body attacks as I possibly can muster against Sharkey's stomach and ribs. The nearest target to a man like Dempsey whose style I have gratefully adopted, is the body and not the chin, consequently, punches are directed first to slow up a man, draw his guard down and give a croucher a chance to spring at his chin, and pop him with a smashing right cross. A stand-up fighter keeps his guard high and naturally the orthodox method of bringing him over is a body attack, but do not think because of the hysteria about fouls that this one will end that way.

German Fans Scorn Clincher.

I do not need any Leo Flynn—God rest his memory—to request a foul line painted about Sharkey's middle. I am after Sharkey's chin just as Dempsey was, and you can bet neither one of us will be turned to chat with the referee the night the championship is decided.

Another thing. Please note—I do not clinch. Over in my country a man who clinches is looked down upon. I never clinch and you will notice most every afternoon while my partners will try to clinch with me I never hold. I will not clinch with Sharkey, but will constantly keep on fighting. I have trained myself to keep swinging for fifteen rounds. I know it tires a man, but if you train to do it you can do it.

Some fighters can loaf along, clinch, hold, wrestle, back up and stall. They can not do that with me. I have seen German fighters, mediocre fighters, but game, kept right on punching, no matter how badly they were hurt. They were trained that way.

Was Fouled in Risko Fight.

I was fouled very badly in the second round of my fight with Johnny Risko. I never made any pleading looks to the referee. I was so badly hurt I was nearly sick in my corner. It took me three or four rounds to come around to myself again, but I did not claim a foul and will never claim a foul. Neither will I commit a foul, and the reason I fight in a crouch is because it gives an enemy a smaller hitting surface with me bent over than if I stood up straight and exposed vulnerable spots.

So I tell my friends not to worry about me tossing away my chance on a foul. I pride myself on being too sportsmanlike and too accurate a puncher for that, and besides I just don't fight that way. I figure a punch to the chin is more damaging and causes less arguments to blight a victory than a foul punch which seems to have become popular of late.

Yanks Hit 3 Homers In Beating Reds, 8-5

Cincinnati, June 2 (A.P.).—With home runs by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Ben Chapman playing an important role, the New York Yankees defeated the Cincinnat Reds, 8 to 5, in an exhibition game today. Each of the home runs came with a man on base.

The Reds jumped into an early lead scoring once in the first and second innings, but the Yanks came back with a four-run attack in the fourth that put the American Leaguers out in front. Ruth and Chapman scored all of the runs with their two circuit clouts. Gehrig added his in the fifth.

Led by Bob Shawkey and Ruth, the Yankees drove to Spring Grove Cemetery before the game, where they placed two wreaths on the grave of Miller Huggins, their late leader.

Simmons, Left in East, Resting Up; In Hospital

Philadelphia, June 2 (A.P.).—Al Simmons, chief clubber of the world's champion Athletics, who was left at home when the A's started on their Western trip, is in the Graduate Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania "resting up," he says.

Simmons ruptured a blood vessel near the right knee cap in sliding into third base on Memorial Day. A physician punctured the knee to reduce the swelling and on Saturday it was again opened.

Al said today that he was feeling fine.

Jimmy Dykes, the Athletics' third baseman, was also left at home with injuries. Dykes suffered injuries to his back in the morning game Memorial Day. Today he made calls on three physicians, each for a different phase of his trouble.

Tilden Is America's Chief Hope, Says Lott, As Plans to Draft Veteran Move Forward

By TED VOSBURGH.

NEW YORK, June 2 (A.P.).—The move to draft Big Bill Tilden for Davis Cup service gained momentum today as a picked squad of America's younger players gathered here to sail tomorrow at midnight for thte international racquet wars abroad.

"I certainly hope Tilden will play," declared George Lott, the blond young all-around athlete from Chicago, who is making his third trip to Europe as a Davis Cup player and ranks as the veteran of the present team.

"Bill went over to Australia and brought the cup back in 1920 and he's been in every challenge round since. He's still the No. 1 ranking player of this country and he has been playing well over there in Europe.

"It certainly would be a shame to have Tilden on the side lines at Paris.

See Tilden as Chief Hope of Team.

"Bill, as I see it, is the only sure point winner we have in singles. I think he can beat Borotra any day. Of course, not even that point is absolutely sure, but Bill has a better chance for it than any of the rest of us."

Highly optimistic of regaining the cup, Lott believes America's big chance lies in beating Borotra twice and repeating last year's victory in the doubles.

"Of course, we have got to win the doubles," he said. "Then an even break in singles would give us the cup.

"Van Ryn and Allison I consider the best doubles team in the country and probably the best in the world. They are better than Doeg and myself, although we won the national championship last year when they were in a slump after their victories abroad.

"The French probably will play Cochet and Brugnon. There will be no dissension in the ranks of this pair as there was between Cochet and Borotra last year to make our task easier, but the Cochet-Brugnon combination can be beaten by a young team that knows how to lob to Brugnon."

In singles, Lott thinks Cochet is virtually unbeatable and should be at the peak of his game by the time the challenge round is played. He has the greatest of confidence in Tilden's ability to beat Borotra and believes he himself, if he gets the call, will have a much better chance of achieving this than last year when he gave the Basque an even fight for two sets.

"I think we are going to win this time," he said quietly. "I just have a feeling, somehow."

It is an optimistic septet, this young squad drawn from all parts of the country—Lott from the Middle West, John Doeg from the Far West, Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell from the Southwest, John Van Ryn, Gregory Mangin and Fitz-Eugene Dixon, the latter nonplaying captain, from the East.

Entered in Two British Meets.

Having beaten Canada and Mexico without losing a single match out of ten played, the team next encounters the European zone winner. The players think it will be Australia, although Japan and England also have a good chance.

Leading up to the interzone final and challenge round, both of which come the last two weeks in July, the players will see plenty of competition. They are entered in the London championships at the Queens Club beginning June 16 and the British championships at Wimbledon, June 23, on grass courts, later shifting to clay for intensive drill in preparation for the big international engagements.

For Doeg, the young Santa Monica, Calif., Hercules, as well as for Mangin and Bell, the reserve players, this is the first trip to foreign battlefields.

Jones and Johnston Win From French Pair, 1 Up

St. Germain, France, June 2 (A.P.).—Golf courses in the United States, Great Britain and France all look alike to Bobby Jones. Upon his first appearance in France today the open champion of the United States and amatuer champion of Great Britain cut three strokes from par of the course, in which he was on the winning side of a best ball match.

With Harrison R. Johnston, amateur champion of the United States, as his partner, Jones defeated Andre Vagliano, amateur champion of France, and Marcel Dellemagne, winner last week of the French professional championship, one up in an 18-hole match.

"Jimmy" Johnston equaled par with a score of 73, while Vagliano had a card of 75.

11 Business Players To Be Given Letters

Eleven Business High School players and Manager Sammy Coehn will receive baseball letters earned during the recent season, it was announced last night by Coach Lynn Woodworth after his return from Staunton Military Academy, where Business was defeated, 10 to 1, in its closing game last Saturday. Woodworth expressed the opinion, however, that the team would not have met such a reverse had his car, transporting players Duryee, Schneider, Garner and Frayden, not been held up by engine trouble, delaying their arrival at Staunton until after the game. The Cadets piled up an 8-0 lead in the first two innings.

The players to receive letters are Chase, Schneider, Duryee, Frantuono, Loftus Singman, Jacobson, Finley, Garner, Silferman and Sinclair.

District Grocery Store players will practice at 5 o'clock tomorrow evening on Diamond No. 3 of the Monument lot

"Lucky Seventh" Brings 20 Runs To Springfield in 38-18 Game

FORT WAYNE, Ind., June 2 (A.P.). What is believed to be a record for high scoring in modern league baseball was established here today when Springfield, Ohio, defeated Fort Wayne in a Central League game, 38 to 18.

The total of 38 runs excels by 10 the previous record of 28 made by the St. Louis Nationals against Philadelphia last year, and the two-team total of 56 compares with 49 hung up in 1922 when the Chicago Nationals defeated Philadelphia 26 to 23.

Springfield batters made 11 of the 14 runs scored in the game. Their 33 hits also included five doubles. Outfielder Reider finished pitching for Fort Wayne after three regular hurlers had been batted from the hill.

Yankees, in Cincinnati, Visit Grave of Huggins

Cincinnati, June 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The last resting place of Miller Huggins, late manager of the Yankees, bore two new wreaths today from the hands and hearts of men who had worked for and with him for many years.

The itinerant baseball party visited Spring Grove Cemetery before the game today and there Babe Ruth placed a flower token on the grave for the team, while Ford Frick, chapter ohairman, placed one for the New York Baseball Writers. After a few minutes of silence and meditation, the group continued on to the ball park.

Columbia U. Defeats Penn, 4-3, in Eleventh

New York, June 2 (A.P.).—Columbia closed its home baseball season before a commencement day crowd of 2,000 with a ten-inning victory today over Pennsylvania, 4 to 3, in an Eastern Intercollegiate League game. The defeat also put Pennsylvania out of the running for the league championship and apparently clinched the flag for Dartmouth, although Yale still has a chance to tie for top honors.

Phils Beat Cards, 9-6, In Lone Major Game

Baker Bowl, Philadelphia, Pa., June 2 (A.P.).—The Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals here this afternoon, 9 to 6, in the first invasion of the Western clubs to this city. The game was the only contest scheduled for the major leagues today.

Phil Collins started on the mound for the Phillies and was followed by Elliott, who finished the game.

This was the seventh straight setback suffered by Gabby Street's club on this present road trip. They entered the West in first place, but are now resting in third position.

Bill Hallahan started on the mound for the Cards but was driven from the hill in the seventh inning after singles by Whitney and Hurst and a double by Friberg had tied the score at 6-all. An infield grounder later scored Friberg and the run was charged against Hallahan.

Frankie Frisch was injured in a collision with Eddie Farrell in the seventh inning. He remained in the game but was replaced by Andy High at the end of the eighth inning.

Chick Hafey hit a home run in the first inning.

Nats' Winning Spurts in 1924 and 1925 Recalled.

Liska Slated to Face Fast-Going Tigers in Game Today.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

DETROIT, Mich., June 2.—While naturally disappointed that his Nationals wilted in the late and lamented series with the Athletics, oddly enough Manager Walter Johnson is taking a rather philosophical view of the situation. The Nats' leader contends, while admitting that his team did not lose on purpose, that its present position is a strategic one.

"If we are a pennant possibility," he said early this afternoon after the Nats were comfortably settled in their Detroit headquarters, "our rating at this time is just about as good as it would be if we were a game or two on top. There is considerable strain in being a pace-setter and knowing that you will drop down the first time you falter, and I notice a relieved atmosphere in our camp already.

Satisfied to Stay Close to Top.

"All we have to do is to keep right on the Mackmen's heels and let them do the worrying. The first time they falter we will have an opportunity to step up, and then it will be up to us to show whether or not we are a real team. As far as I am concerned, if we can stick close to the leaders for another month, I'll be satisfied. Unless a race proves to be a one-sided one, it usually is decided in the last month or so of the season. That's how we won our flags in 1924 and 1925—by sticking close to the leaders and then passing them in the stretch drive—and, if we continue playing the type of ball we have played to date we'll be in a good position to do this little thing."

Even Johnson admits that he does not expect his team to beat either the Yankees, whom he still fears, or the Athletics, in slugging matches, but he figures that his four ranking pitchers Liska, Hadley, Brown and Jones were due to get their bumps and he is hopeful that all four will get back in their stride again immediately. If they do, the Nat's mound corps, by more effective pitching day in and day out, will more than offset the heavier hitting of opponents, Johnson believes.

Nats' Pitching Staff Outshines A's.

With respect to the Athletics, in particular, while the Nats were battling their way to first place they received comparatively little help from other teams, they themselves administering exactly half of the defeats charged to world's champs. As things now stand, the two open their Western invasion tomorrow with the Washington club better fortified in the way of pitchers than are the A's. Connie Mack has to depend upon Grove, Walberg, Earnshaw and Mahaffey, and only Grove and Mahaffey are delivering. Earnshaw having been able to go the route but once so far this season, while Walberg has been hit hard in most of his starts and has been knocked out quite frequently.

In view of this state of affairs in the Mackian camp, the Nat skipper and his crew are confident that they can more than hold their own with the leaders during this swing around the West and neither are they losing any sleep over the close proximity of the Indians, who are trailing them by but three games.

Tigers Won 5 of 7 Games Last Week.

Adolph Liska is slated to draw the pitching assignment tomorrow in the first of the four-game set with the Tigers. When the two met in Washington they divided a set of the same length. To do better than this, however, means that the Nats will have to play heads-up ball, for Boss Bucky Harris appears to have been feeding his Bengals raw meat of late, the result being five victories in seven starts last week, which brought the team back to the Ford city last night

TURF WORLD AWAITING ENGLISH DERBY TOMORROW

151st Stake At Epsom Nears

World-Wide Interest Centers on Epsom Downs Course.

Millions Will Chnage Hands in Sweepstakes Lotteries.

LONDON, June 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The 151st renewal of the Derby will be run on Wednesday, over the historic track, on Epsom Downs, and national, in fact, world-wide, excitement over the event has been growing daily for the past few weeks.

Certainly the twelfth Earl of Derby, who inaugurated the race in 1780, and his associates in what was a "private sweepstake" to settle an after-dinner dispute as to the merits of their various 3-year-olds, never anticipated that the race would become of such tremendous international importance. But they could hardly foresee the modern development of transport, cable, telegraphic and telephonic communications.

In those days enthusiasts either rode horseback or drove by horse shay or coach to the track, hence the number of spectators was limited. While considerable time elapsed before interested sportsmen at home or abroad could obtain details of the encounter. Nowadays the result and details are flashed right round the world within a few minutes of the horses passing the winning post on Epsom Downs, and such is the modern method of reporting that readers in remote parts of the world probably get a better idea of the happenings than the majority of the hundreds of thousands of spectators who annually witness the contest on Epsom Downs.

Public Sees Race Without Fees.

Any accurate estimate of the number of people who see the race is impossible, for the simple reason that Epsom Downs is public property, and except for grandstands erected by the Epsom town cfouncil, the race track is not inclosed, so that all can wintess the world's greatest race without payment or passing through turnstiles.

Officially, this year's event is styled "the 147th Renewal of the Derby Stakes," for the four war-time events had to be transferred to Newmarket (Epsom Downs being required for training soldiers), and so are merely regarded as "substitute Derbys," as far as Epsom is concerned.

30 of 323 Entries Likely to Start.

Of the 323 original entries made in November, 1928, only 94 stood their ground when the penultimate forfeit was announced some six weeks ago, and since then there have been various eliminations (final forfeit is declared a week before the race), and the actual field to face the starter will probably not exceed thirty or so.

Sweepstakes or lotteries are forbidden by English law. But nobody worries much about that, and various means are found of circumventing the law. The Calcutta Sweep this year totals approximately $5,000,000 (in tickets costing roughly $3.50 apiece) and there will be three "first prizes" of about $600,000 apiece for the holders of the tickets drawn for the eventual winner.

This year's London Stock Exchange is on comparatively modest lines, as the stock exchange authorities have had trouble with the legal authorities and have endeavored to confine participation more nearly to their actual members. Not more than half a million dollars worth of tickets were issued, as against five millions last year. The prize drawings will be duplicated, and not more than $150,000 will come the way of the fortunate holders of tickets for the winner. Ten per cent of the whole amount subscribed is devoted to charity—which enables the promoters to avoid serious trouble with the law of England, as laid down by the lotteries act.

Countless Millions Change Hands.

But countless millions of dollars will change hands over the race through the medium of innumerable smaller sweeps organized in clubs, factories and among various other bodies and associations. Not a factory workshop, office building, club or saloon in Britain but has its Derby sweep.

The habit has spread to Americans and other nationalities to an astonishing extent. So that there is hardly a corner of the world where excited sportsmen and sweepstakes ticket-holders will not be anxiously waiting to know the name of the wearing thoroughbred who passes the winning-post at Epsom about 3:15 p. m. (English time) on Wednesday.

American-Owned Entry Quoted at Odds of 25-1

London, June 2 (A.P.).—The Scout II, American owned and bred entry in the derby at Epsom Downs Wednesday, was listed at 25 to 1 against when the widely accepted odds quoted by the Victoria Club were announced today. The Scout II is owned by William Woodward of New York and was bred at his Belair stud in Maryland.

The odds, quoted were as follows: Diolite, 5 to 2 against; Rustum Pasha, 7 to 1; Trewa and Silver Flare 100 to 8; Ballyferis, Blenheim and Noble Star, 18 to 1; Iliad and The Scout II, 25 to 1; Dickhswiveller, 28 to 1; Seer and Bargany, 33 to 1; The Sponger, 50 to 1; Sea Rover, 66 to 1; Grand Salute, Lansdowne and Parthenon, 100 to 1; Adlon and Tetragen, 200 to 1.

Half Ticket on Favorite Is Sold for $125,000

London, June 2 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The secrecy surrounding the result of the draw for the Calcutta sweepstakes has resulted in the names of only a few of those drawing horses becoming public yet.

It is known, however, that T. C. Lawndes, a Manchester tobacconist, drew Scout II, and has sold a half interest in his ticket for $125,000.

Shaw Wallace, of Calcutta, drew Ballyferis and sold half his ticket for about $15,000. Three Indian servants of a Calcutta bank drew Silver Flare and sold a half chance for about $37,500.

Boots and Saddle's

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE fifth race, a handicap, $1,600 added, features the Washington Park card today and brings out some of the best handicap horses now racing in the West. MISSTEP is required to give away an enormous amount of weight, carrying 126 pounds.

JOCK comes next with 117 pounds, and it appears that MISSTEP can win, in spite of the concession, for JOCK has not shown the form this year that he did last. LEUCITE, the Rancocas entry, is a smart young horse, and may be dangerous even to MISSTEP. The mystery of the race is the case of IRONSIDES, son of Man o' War, which in time has won some big stakes in the East, but last dropped back in his earnings and finally has passed to new owners. He is in this race with 102 pounds. He was sent West from Belmont Park to Thistledown, where he was beaten in a very cheap field, and next turns up at Washington Park. His new owners must believe in him, and they may be right, but so far he has shown nothing this year that approaches his old form when he could run with the best. He may be a big surprise some day like another Man o' War offspring, Hard Tack, which busted out at Saratoga and beat good ones at 40 to 1.

FIRST RACE—For 3-year-olds is probably a contest among Eastern horses. ZUBLENA is picked to win. She beat a good field at Jamaica, and carries the silks of the Rancocas Stable. UPSEDAISY is from the Greentree Stable, like UBLENA, raced at New Orleans during the winter, before coming to Kentucky, and wins occasionally when everything is right. JOVIAL FRIAR should show.

SECOND RACE—For 2-year-olds may go to NADIA. ZEBRA will be the contender in this dash. MISS JOAN, probably the favorite, is dangerous. ZEBRA has not been running so well since leaving the winter tracks. NADIA ran well in Kentucky.

THIRD RACE—The consistent mare, MISS RAMSEY, should win here. She will have keen competition from VOLTMETER and NETTIE PEBBLES also has a chance. Only 3-year-olds start in the race and there are no weight distinctions worth mentioning.

FOURTH RACE—Is a purse for 2-year-olds and the Greentree Stable is due to score with its entry of SHINING and TACK, either one of which appears equal to the occasion. DON ALVARADO, a winner last week, should be close up. NORIA, believed an Oaks possibility, should hold the others safe.

SIXTH RACE—PANSY WALKER should repeat in this test for 3-year-old fillies, having won a better race last week. She is royally bred, being by Sir Gallahad II, sire of Gallant Fox. The Camden entry, ELLICE and HONEY LOCUST, will monopolize the short ends of the purse and should finish second and third in the order named. The field is small, but has class.

SEVENTH RACE—MISS MARYLAND has shown improvement and is selected. It also is for fillies and mares. FELICITY may be the contender DONNA SANTA has a chance.

CITY LEAGUE ORDERS REPLAY AND SUSPENDS HAAS

Ruling Costs Eagle Nine Victory

Columbia Heights Is Winner of Protest After Defeat.

First Baseman Failed to Obtain Release From St. Joseph.

RULING on a protest filed by the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association Nine, the protest board of the Capital City League last night ordered the replaying of the game of May 25, which the Anacostia Eagles won from the Heights Nine, and also suspended First Baseman Everett "Sam" Haas for an indefinite period.

After investigating charges filed by Manager Pete Pratt of the Columbia Heights Nine to the effect that Haas had signed and played with St. Joseph's A. C. and had also participated in the game of May 25 with the Anacostia Team without obtaining a release from the St. Joseph's Team. The board made its ruling on the grounds that Hass should have obtained a release from St. Joseph.

Under the league rules a game in which an ineligible player participates a forfeit should be warded the opposing team. League officials expressed the belief that the management of the Anacostia team had been given misleading information relative to Hass' status and that the team was not guilty of an intentional infraction of the rules.

Ineligibility Known To Haas.

According to statements issued to the teams involved, the protest board found that Haas had played with the Anacostia Eagles on May 25 with the knowledge that he was ineligible. He will remain ineligible for play in the league until the suspension is lifted. This suspension may be lifted at a later date, it was indicated, provided a request is made by the St. Joseph's A. C. management. The contract signed by Haas for the St. Joseph's team will stand.

The Columbia Heights-Anacostia Eagle game will be played at a later date. As the result of the ruling on the protest, both teams retain undefeated records. The former is credited with two wins and no losses. The Eagles are credited with a victory and no losses.

Belshe, War Golfer, Leads In Departmental Tourney

Card of 154 Is 5 Strokes Better Than Shipley, State; Swindel, Standards, Has Low Net of 135.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST

THOMAS M. BELSHE, of the War Department, yesterday led a field of 107 contestants in the first day of the annual tournament of the Inter-Departmental Golf League, played on the course of the Indian Spring Club. The field yesterday played thirty-six holes, medal play, handicap allowance, and the other half of the field, numbering again over 100, will conclude the event today.

Belshe had a card of 76-78—154, and was five strokes lower than M. A. Shipley, State Department, who was the medalist last year and whose score yesterday was 82-77—159. Last year Belshe tied for second low gross.

The low net score yesterday was turned in by J. F. Swindells, Bureau of Standards, who with a gross of 161 and 26 handicap for the thirty-six holes, had a net 135. J. E. Robertson, Postoffice Department, was second low net with 162-24—138, while E. L. Cogan, Interior, with 167-28—139, and A. P. Strohm, Interstate Commerce, with 163-24—139, tied for third position. These results, however, may not survive through the competition which is scheduled for today.

Interest High In Tourney.

The interest of the governmental employes in these tournaments was remarkably demonstrated yesterday by the fact that although there were over 100 entries, only three players failed to appear on the first tee at the time designated. In addition, only two players failed to turn in their cards and one of these was called back to the city on important business.

It is true that the golf, as a whole, was not of championship caliber, for in the forenoon round only four players—Belshe, Robertson, Swindells and Strohm—were able to negotiate the course under 80, and the only rounds in the seventies in the afternoon were made by H. S. Pope, General Accounting Office, and Shipley, who had 78 and 77, respectively.

Most of the players encountered their greatest trouble on the seventh or water hole, where M. McDermott, of the State Department, took eleven strokes and where no less than 62 golfers saw their golf balls take a watery bath. The seventeenth was also troublesome and more 5s and 6s were scored than par 3s. Birdies were few and far between, although E. J. Mulvey had two to his credit, one on the seventh and another on the ninth, and E. L. Cogan, Interior, was one of the very few who had birdie 2s on the short sixth.

Pendergast Makes Birdie.

W. L. Pendergast, Bureau of Standards, scored a birdie 2 on the seventeenth, but R. M. Brown, Interstate Commerce, had the proud distinction of the only eagle of the day, a 3 on the long fifteenth.

The scores made today, in addition to those turned in yesterday, will be classified in team matches, four men to a team, and arranged in three classes, A, B and C. The winning team in Class A will win the trophy donated by Secretary Mellon, of the Treasury Department, but cups have also been provided for teams in the other classes. There will also be prizes for low gross and low net scores. The scores yesterday were:

Pool Elected Lacrosse Captain at St. John's

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 2.—The St. John's College Lacrosse Team ended another successful session today, defeating a crack alumni team by a 2 to 1 score. This final game was a whale of a battle all the way with the alumni boasting several team coaches and members of the strong Mount Washington Club.

Bobby Pool, of Baltimore, was elected captain of the 1931 team.

Hyattsville Nine Bows In State Game, 10-9

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 2.—Towson High School's Nine, representing Baltimore County, advanced a peg in the annual intercounty race for the State Public Athletic League baseball championship this afternoon when it nosed out Hyattsville High, Prince Georges County champions, 10 to 9, at Carroll Park. Rader hurled a heady game for the victors. He struck out fourteen. His mates gave him a 10-8 edge in the seventh and he held the visitors safe to pull out with a single run decision. Two homers were made, Peffer and Bartoo, both of Hyattsville, being the clouters.

in fifth place, which is the highest it has stood in the race this season.

Just before leaving the Nationals in Washington yesterday, Outfielder Bob Barrett almost put one of Johnson's flingers out of commission. In a wrestling match before the game with Brute Bob Burke, Barrett stepped on the young southpaw's right hand, spiking him quite badly.

The Nationals ran into real summer weather here and the first thing most of the players did when they arrived shortly before noon was to rush their Palm Beaches to the tailor for pressing and cleaning.

ARMY AND ANNAPOLIS PLAY AT DIPLOMACY

on any available lot on some Wednesday afternoon.

These officers, however, have developed a professional attitude toward the game of football, which, to them, is a matter for ballyhoo, contracts, Army prestige, propaganda and gate receipts. Intrinsically, football is a game and if the West Point athletes are as robust as the common run of college varsity men, it would be quite possible to play a game some midweek afternoon on the West Point plane without gate receipts nor any more formality than the appointment of the time and place. The scrub and class teams of most big schools play scheduled or impromptu games as informally as this every week in the football season and survive the wear and tear without any unusual casualties.

Could Not Be Done Because——

"But," says Col. Whipple, "it could not be done."

"Why not," one asked the colonel.

"Because," says he, "it could not. That would be absurd."

I am not certain that the Naval Academy would accept such an invitation now, but I do know that the Navy would have been in no mood nor position to reject such a proposition a few weeks ago.

The Navy broke a sporting agreement when relations were severed. Then followed some losing teams, so, like a government which has tried a reprehensible course but failed to get away with it, Navy was receptive to any proposition.

That would have enabled the resumption of the game on the old terms without further discussion of the original faux pas. This course of intrigue and counter-intrigue does not seem likely to idealize sport to the Cadets and Midshipmen. But then, many officers of the Army and Navy go out to the embassies in the course of their careers to assist in the diplomatic service of the country, to perhaps it is just as well that they be grounded in diplomatic methods, principles and strategy at an early age.

NO U. S. ENTRIES.

Brussels, Belgium, June 2 (A.P.).—The Belgian tennis championships got under way today with no Americans entered. William T. Tilden, who had expected to participate, wired the committee that he would be unable to play. Helen Jacobs also scratched her entry because of the imminence of the Wrightman Cup matches.

LARGE FIELD IN 15-MILE RUN HERE

A.A.U. Championship Race Saturday to Draw Stars.

ENTRIES still are being received for the national amateur 15-mile run to be held Saturday in Potomac Park. Between 40 and 50 will compose the field that will leave the starting mark at Zero Milestone at 2 p. m., according to those in charge.

Bill Agee, 1929 champion, will head a team from the Emorywood A. C., of Baltimore, while others of prominence already entered are Charles Solomon, Brooklyn (N. Y.) Harriers A. A.; Mike Lynch, veteran of the long-distance game here, and Frank S. Bongiorno, Millrose A. A., of New York City.

Traffic will be stopped on the Ellipse roadway during the progress of the race and park police will patrol the entire route to protect the runners. Two complete circuits of the Speedway will be made, thus affording spectators plenty of time and space to view the race.

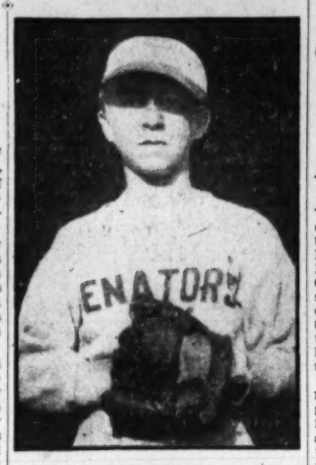
Crowley Wins Net Title At Georgetown Prep

In a five-set match lasting over three hours, George Crowley yesterday won the tennis championship of Georgetown Prep School when he defeated Frank Cole, 4—6, 7—5, 0—6, 6—1, 8—6 on the courts of the Garrett Park School. It was the final match of a tournament which opened last Wednesday with 48 entries.

As a result of his victory, Crowley received the Georgetown Prep Spring tennis cup, while Cole received the trophy which was offered for the runner-up. It was the climax of a brilliant sports career for Crowley, who previously had starred on the football, basket ball and baseball teams of the schooll.

Ray Sisler, 90-Pound Star, Dynamo of Local Sandlots

Captain of Senators Steals Show on Monument Lot.



RAY SISLER.

NINETY-POUND dynamo of the diamond—that's Ray Sisler, captain and third baseman of the Senators, Columbia Heights' contribution to Washington midget baseball ranks.

Possessing a name made famous by the once great George, of St. Louis Brown fame, the youthful Ray has been a diamond addict since he was able to throw a ball and swing a splinter of a bat. At sixteen he is probably the most colorful figure on the District's sandlots at present.

Ask any one of the several hundred fans who witnessed the Georgetown-Senator game of the Capital City League Sunday morning on No. 4 Monument diamond about Ray. Few of them would probably know his name, but his work afield, at bat and in directing his team could not escape attention.

The 4-foot Senator leader is here, there and everywhere, placing his outfield, calling his infield in, cautioning his pitcher or having a word with the umpire.

It is the midget figure at third base that holds the chief attention when the Senators are in action, but Charley Mintzel, at first base, and Thomas Lynch, at shortstop, share the spotlight when they swing into action. Monk Fraser, himself a boy protege of the diamond on District sandlots a few years back, is predicting great things in a baseball way for the skillful pair—Mintzel and Lynch. Monk has been showing the Senators how they play ball in the majors, and the youngsters have been displaying some of the best baseball seen on sandlot diamonds in years.

Last year the Senators captured the French's Insect League championship and then defeated the Eastern A. A., Capital City League champs. Sisler and his cohorts have visions of winning a title their first year in midget ranks.

SHAMROCK V WINS.

Cowes, Isle of Might, June 2 (A.P.).—The Shamrock V., Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's cup, proved herself very fast in a light breeze by beating five big yachts in today's race. The Shamrock led for most of the day and beat the White Heather home by half a length. Candida was third.

TITLE IS WON BY MANGAN, CONSIDINE

Conquer O'Neill and Love in 4 Sets in City Net Finals.

By JACK ESPEY.

BOB CONSIDINE followed up his singles victory of Sunday with a triumph yesterday in the doubles final of the City of Washington tournament, pairing with Tom Mangan to defeat Douglas Love and Maurice O'Neill in a four-set match, 6—1, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2. This gave Considine and Mangan their second successive doubles championship of this tournament in two years and entitled them to a set of new cups donated by the Washington Tennis Association.

After taking the first two sets rather handily Considine and Mangan ran into determined opposition in the third set, and after a string of service breaks Love and O'Neill gained the decision. Stung by this unexpected set-back, the ultimate winners speeded up their pace and flashed through the fourth set in brilliant style reminiscent of the tennis they displayed last year.

Winners Show Teamwork.

With Considine contributing devastating smashes at the net, and Mangan covering the back court in his characteristic steady manner, the challengers were forced to fight an uphill battle from the very start.

SALES OF STOCKS DECLINE SHARPLY

Utilities Climb as Market Experiences Extremely Dull Turnover.

RAILS RECOVER LOSSES

New York, June 2 (A.P.).—Hopes that the three-day vacation would revive the stock market were quickly dissipated today. Lethargy was virtually the only characteristic of the trading, as the day's turnover of only 1,710,800 shares attested. It was the smallest since January 20.

The little speculative interest that was stirring manifested itself in a relatively limited selection of stocks. Steel specialties, the foods and a few merchandising shares were the favorites, although the utilities, which give some promise of merger developments, averaged higher. The rails, after meeting further liquidation in the earlier hours, recovered partially. Leading industrials eased.

In the absence of definite news having a bearing on the financial markets, operators caught at such straws as were adrift. The increase in Montgomery Ward's May sales was used as a lever to lift that stock higher and some others in the same group accompanied it upward. Current plans for extension of natural gas pipe lines to important markets in the East and Middle West directed attention to the shares of manufacturers likely to benefit by orders for pipe. Pools were apparently active in a handful of the low-priced radio stocks, notably Grigsby-Grunow and Zenith, both of which went to new 1930 highs.

Numerous Shares Sag.

Shorts were busy in numerous issues, particularly J. I. Case, which closed at 273½, or 14 points below last Thursday's final quotation. Radio was also under pressure, yielding about 1½ points. Such stocks as United States Steel, General Electric, General Motors and Standard Oil of New Jersey sagged fractionally in the absence of demand.

Republic Steel rallied about 3 points, the best gain in the steel group. United States Pipe and McKeesport Tin Plate were also strong, while Vanadium advanced 2 points, only to lose most of its rise. Goodyear, Eastman Kodak, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, General Foods, Sharpe & Dohme and Air Reduction moved up one to three points, the last named breaking its previous 1930 high. International Harvester lost nearly 2.

With most of the railroad earnings statements for April out of the way, traders paid less attention to the carrier stock. Union Pacific, selling ex-dividend, sagged below 223, but recovered for a net gain of more than 2 points. Southern Railway improved 1½ and Atchison nearly a point. Missouri Pacific dropped 1⅛.

Small Changes in Utilities

Most of the utilities made small changes. Prominent shares including American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, American & Foreign Power, and Electric Power & Light, were firm.

Dividend reductions by three copper companies, including Kennecott, failed to cause a flurry in the group, which appeared to have been well defiated; directors of Anaconda, one of the few remaining large producers which have not yet acted on the dividend question, meet in about a fortnight.

Commodity prices drifted irregularly. Wheat lost about a cent to a cent and a half in speculative response to beneficial rains in the Northwest and a disappointing decrease in the American visible supply. Corn was steady and fractionally higher. Cotton declined 15 to 30 points net, reflecting favorable week-end weather. Raw sugar futures advanced in the early dealings, but subsequently reacted, closing almost unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were extremely dull and eased. Most of the leading European currencies made small declines.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 2 (A.P.).—Reports of favorable weather for crop progress over the Memorial Day adjournment and relatively easy Liverpool cables were reflected by declines in cotton here today. July sold off to 15.99 and closed at 16.01, while the new October contract closed at 14.62, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 15 to 30 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 11 to 19 points on the favorable interpretation of the weather news and the decline reported in Liverpool over the local holiday. Offerings were not particularly heavy, but there was no aggressive buying. The market sold about 17 to 25 points net lower during the early trading. The market then steadied and rallies of a few points on covering occurred during the middle of the day, but prices eased again later and the close was within a point or two of the lowest.

According to some private reports, cotton made rather poor growth during the week due to cool nights in some sections of the South, but weather conditions were the most favorable of the month for field work, and excellent progress was made with planting and replanting. Liverpool evidently was favorably impressed by weather advices reaching there over the local holiday, as the English market was considerably lower than due on the New York close of last Thursday, although Bombay and continental selling there was absorbed by covering and trade calling at the decline. Manchester advices said sales of cotton cloths were small and that yarn order lists were running down rapidly.

A private report was issued placing the end-May condition of the crop at 68.7, against 69.7 at the same time last year, which appeared to be without much effect upon the immediate market. Port receipts today, 4,624. U. S. port stocks, 2,742,050. Exports today, 3,929, making 6,467,753 so far this season.

FOREIGN BONDS RISE IN ACTIVE TURNOVER

Utilities and Prime Rails Prove Steady; Other Groups Uneasy.

UNDERTONE STILL FIRM

New York, June 2 (A.P.).—The strength of foreign issues was the bright note in the bond trading of the New York Stock Exchange today. In contrast with the narrow trading in domestic bonds, the foreign bonds reached higher levels generally as a better demand developed.

The total sales increased extensively, but the first trading day of a month failed to develop any indication that the temperament of the market is scheduled for an immediate improvement. The market showed strong underlying strength today as it has for weeks, but there was no disposition to climb to higher levels.

Highest grade railroad and public utility bonds were in fairly good demand and prices were firm, but irregularity was displayed by the rest of the domestic list. Prime rails appreciated in value on the movement, but it was in the foreign department that the greatest strength of the day was shown.

Trading was in a wide list of Government and industrial bonds of foreign countries and prices advanced generally from one-fourth to 1 point, with some sensational rises of more than that. Special attention was devoted to German government and corporate issues, which were active and strong. South American governments were firm. The heaviest demand was for Japan government 5½s and the bond appreciated one-fourth of a point.

Demand for United States Governments improved and Treasury issues firmed. There was a large turnover of Liberty fourth 4¼s, which touched a new 1930 high during the day.

New financing tomorrow includes $5,500,000 London Terrace Apartments 6 per cent sinking fund bonds, by S. W. Straus & Co., and $3,500,000 Indian Refining Co. 5½ per cent gold notes priced at 99¼.

CREDIT CONDITIONS REPORTED IMPROVED

Bulletin Expects Normal Situation to Return by Last Quarter.

COLLECTIONS ARE RISING

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Characterizing credit conditions the country over as generally on the up grade, the June bulletin of the National Association of Credit Men, received yesterday by the Washington Association of Credit Men, states that "if the tariff muddle can be cleared, the forecast of close to normal conditions for the last quarter of 1930 bids fair to hold good."

This view is supported by results of a business analysis made in trade group conferences at the recent convention of the national association at Dallas, which is quoted in the bulletin. Ninety-five per cent of the credit managers participating in the survey, referring specifically to their own firms, predicted that business during the next six months would be as good or better than it is now. Seventy-five per cent expected definite improvement, 20 per cent expected present levels to be maintained, and only 5 per cent worse conditions.

General collection conditions for the entire country are reported as slightly better than a month ago. The bulletin states, "Actual improvement appears to be about 1 per cent, which is nothing to brag about, but may be taken as an indication that the collection curve is at least moving in the right direction."

Market Trustees Reelected.

All trustees of the Northern Market Co. of Washington City were reelected at the annual meeting of stockholders held yesterday at the company's offices, Seventh and O streets northwest. They are: W. W. Millan, Edward W. Donn, Charles Morgan, Floyd E. Davis, R. E. L. Smith, A. F. Harlan, J. Enos Ray, jr., and Frederick L. Vogt.

Two Claude Neon electric signs have been placed over the Massachusetts avenue and Seventh street entrances of the Central Branch of the American Security & Trust Co. The sign facing on Seventh street reads "American Security and Trust Company" and the one over the Massachusetts avenue entrance shows only the word "Bank."

Both signs have pure copper backgrounds with raised letters faced with gold leaf and a cornice across the top also faced with gold leaf. In the daytime the gold letters, contrasting with the background, show the words very clearly, while at night the Neon lights go a long way toward brightening up a corner which has been dark for many years.

Grief pervaded the financial district yesterday at news of the death of Dr. Frederic Ernest Farrington, president of the Chevy Chase Savings Bank, which institution he had headed since 1925, and of the Chevy Chase School for Girls. Dr. Farrington was active in the affairs of the District of Columbia Bankers Association and always attended its annual conventions except when their dates conflicted with those of the graduation exercises of his school.

Waller Goes to Asheville.

President Wilmer J. Waller, of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, left last night for Asheville, N. C., to prepare for the opening of the association's convention there Thursday morning. George O. Vass, general convention committee chairman, leaves today.

Dr. Mark F. Finley, director of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., is attending the annual convention of the Sons of the American Revolution at Asbury Park, N. J.

Rufus S. Lusk announces the formation of Rufus S. Lusk, Inc., a statistical organization specializing in real estate information and now engaged in a survey of Greater Washington for the Washington Board of Trade.

President Edward J. Stellwagen, Union Trust Co., will entertain the entire staff of that institution over the week-end, at the Oaks, his summer home on West River.

KINNIER EXPLAINS SEWER BOND LEVY

Arlington Engineer Says 30-Cent Tax Probably Would Be Reduced.

JOINT CARNIVAL OPENS

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Replying to the statements made public yesterday by Frederic P. Dewey, secretary of the Clarendon Citizens Association, to the effect that figures showing a 30-cent levy with a service charge of $10 per year would not be sufficient to carry the proposed $2,173,089 sewerage bond issue, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier yesterday declared that the figures, which were given out from his office, have been carefully computed and are available to any one interested if they will come to his office at the courthouse.

"These figures are not only correct, but I can show that with a continued normal growth of the county that the 30 cents with the $10 service charge will not only take care of the bond issue interest and sinking fund but that it will be possible to reduce the 30-cent levy prior to the retirement of the bonds," he said.

"Assuming the figure of 40 cents as stated by Mr. Dewey as being correct it would not require the service charge of $10.

"As to the question of the county taking over lateral lines already laid and reassessing the property owners, as has been stated, it is true the county will take over these systems, but where they are working in a satisfactory manner and the property owners are satisfied, there will be no front-foot charge made," Mr. Kinnier declared.

He stated that the county board of supervisers is holding a special meeting at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the courthouse, when all questions pertaining to the proposed sewer bond issue will be discussed and answered.

Amid hundreds of colored electric lights the joint annual carnival being held under the auspices of the Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., and Clarendon Rebekah Lodge, No. 28, opened last night on the field fronting Wilson boulevard at the intersection of Clements avenue.

The proceeds will go to the building fund.

According to an announcement made last night by E. J. Blackmer, secretary of the Arlington Fire Department, the meeting announced for tomorrow night has been postponed until Friday evening of this week. The meeting will be held in the new firehouse at 8 o'clock.

With the chapel of Arlington Hall College for Girls filled to its capacity, the third annual graduating exercises were held.

The exercises opened with the invocation by Dr. William E. Martin, president of the college.

Representative Albert Johnson, of Washington State, addressed the class on "Good Citizenship." He said: "No matter what your age, do not let some one else do your politics."

"Find out each simple step that goes to make up the governing body of our country," he said.

He declared that had not the immigration law of 1924 been effective, which he stated has kept from this country more than 10,000,000 persons, the high school standards of today would not have been maintained.

"Have your religion," he said, "but be advanced and conservative and at all times ready to defend the United States.

"I am not in favor of allowing any one to become a citizen of our country that asks for any such reservation that they not be called upon to take up arms should the time become necessary."

Dr. Martin, president, in presenting the diplomas, said: "Do not be satisfied now that you are about to receive your diplomas denoting that you have completed your course of study here at Arlington Hall, but as the years come and go continue to strive to learn more.

"Arlington Hall is a small school and there are those that love it.

"This is the closing of our third year. We have grown from 40 students the first year to 120 this year. We hope to have 150 next year and the next 200, then we will stop for a while and continue to have a small school, but one that is filled with the most pleasant memories by those who leave us."

To Miss Margaret Roberst, of New York, went the highest honors of 92.5 per cent; second, Miss Anne Callahan, of Pennsylvania, with an average of 91; and third, Miss Gladys Beck, of Missouri, with an average of 90.3.

Those receiving diplomas were: Katherine Archinal, Ohio; Gladys Beck, Missouri; Anne Callahan, Pennsylvania; Sara Davis, Virginia; Mary Jane Dulaney, Virginia; Rosalie Espy, Texas; Martha Lowery, Pennsylvania; Mary Jane McLean, West Virginia; Margaret Roberts, New York; Edith Simpson, Virginia; Mary Elizabeth Sippel, Pennsylvania; Eloise Stoffel, Tennessee; Lucille Wright, Tennessee; Margaret Wright, Tennessee; Virginia Sue Wright, Tennessee, and Virginia Susan Wright, Arkansas.

According to an announcement from the office of the secretary of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce made yesterday, out of a total of 230 letters sent to the membership asking their views for or against the proposed sewer bond issue there have been received 51 replies favoring the bond issue and two against. On the question of the establishment by the Federal Government of an airport south of the Highway Bridge, 36 favor the project while 15 oppose it.

There will be a meeting of the executive committee Thursday night in the board rooms in the Rees Building at Clarendon.

Waiving hearing on a charge of illegal possession, Mallard T. Frazzérre was held for the action of the grand jury in police court yesterday by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas. He was later released on $500 bond for his appearance at the June term of the circuit court.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier announced last night that persons who find that the street lights near their homes are not burning should notify him. "In this way we can keep the street lights burning," he stated

Claude O. Thomas, secretary to the Arlington electoral board, gave out the following list of persons who will serve as judges at the special election on the school and sewer bond issues Monday, June 9. The list follows, by precincts:

COUNCILMAN NAMED KENSINGTON MAYOR

Frederick W. Brown Voted Office in Yesterday's Election.

TAX LEVY IS STUDIED

Frederick W. Brown, a member of the town council, last night was elected mayor of Kensington, Md. There were 128 votes cast for his election, with about 25 other scattered votes. Mr. Brown had a year more of his term as councilman to serve and this post also was filled, as well as two vacancies for two years.

William Warthen, with 126 votes, and H. P. Hartshorn, with 121 votes, were reelected to fill the two seats left vacant by the expiration of their terms of office. Alfred Geiger, president of the Kensington Volunteer Fire Department, was elected to fill out the one year of Mr. Brown's unexpired term. He received 101 votes and his nearest opponent, Alfred Ray, polled 95 votes.

Mayor Lucien B. Ernest, who has been in ill health since the time he took office, was not a candidate for reelection. The last meeting of the present council will be held June 30. The new mayor and council will take office July 1. Mr. Brown is acting as mayor at present due to the illness of Mayor Lucien.

The Montgomery County Commissioners will meet today in the courthouse at Rockville to fix the annual levy and the tax rate for the ensuing fiscal year, which begins July 1. It is expected that the present tax rate will be continued although complete returns on the levy had not been finished last night.

The office of Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, has been operating at top speed for several weeks preparing the data for the compilation of the levy and the finishing touches will be put on this morning. It is expected that a large increase in the taxable basis will take care of the usual increase in expenses.

The exact basis and tax rate will not be definitely established until after the levy items are tabulated.

Edward A. Hamilton, of Baltimore, Md., was arrested last night by Corp. D. L. Snyder, of the Silver Spring substation, Montgomery county police, on charges of transportation of liquor with intent to sell. He was released on bond of $500 by Justice of the Peace Ward W. Caddington to appear later in county police court.

Corp. Snyder noticed that the tags on the Hamilton car were dirty and halted the car. The driver acted in a suspicious manner and the policeman decided to take him into the substation, where he obtained a search warrant. Approximately 408 quarts of alleged liquor were found in the car, police claim.

Miss Lavinia Engle, director of the Maryland League of Women Voters, will be the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Montgomery County Social Service League tonight at 6:30 o'clock in the Bethesda Women's Clubhouse, Old Georgetown road and Sanoma street.

INCREASES IN SOUTH FEATURE OF CENSUS

Texas and Florida Lead List of States Whose Cities Grow Rapidly.

JACKSON DOUBLE IN SIZE

Atlanta, Ga., June 2 (A.P.).—The industrial march of the South is exemplified by census returns from her cities. From the valleys of the Potomac, down the bustling seaboard to Florida, across the great valley to the plains of Texas, cities have increased their population surprisingly.

Census workers agree that the increase shown in the South has been one of the features of the national count.

Virginia fared well, her cities growing amazingly and her rural sections keeping step, probably because of her tobacco. North Carolina enjoyed a particularly healthy growth, her agricultural sections holding their own and her cities growing rapidly. Charlotte returned a count of 82,645, an increase of 78.4 per cent. Although Charleston, S. C., lost population, other cities' census in the State showed good gains.

Greater Atlanta jumped to 347,991, an increase of 73.4 per cent. Augusta, Macon, and Columbus in this State grew rapidly also. Georgia rural sections lost population in many cases, but their losses usually were cities' gains.

Increases in Alabama.

Tennessee has four cities—Nashville, Memphis, Chattanooga and Knoxville—in the 100,000 class. Memphis climbed to more than 250,000.

In Kentucky, Louisville's count had not been reported. Ashland showed the biggest increase of the larger towns reported, with a 1930 population of 29,050, an increase of 99 per cent over 1929. Newport, with 29,740, showed 15 per cent increase, and Paducah, with 33,541, had risen 35 per cent.

Alabama's three cities, Birmingham, Mobile and Montgomery, returned good reports. Birmingham grew to 257,657, an increase of 44.1; Montgomery had a 51.1 per cent increase to 65,801, while Mobile climbed to 65,817, an increase of 8.2.

New Orleans Largest.

Jackson, Miss., more than doubled its population, while the Delta cities of Greenwood, Clarksdale and Greenville grew nicely. Columbus, over in the dairying section, also showed a substantial increase. Meridian dropped to the State's second city, but grew nevertheless. Laurel and Hattiesburg, great lumber manufacturing centers, increased their population despite the fact that much lumber down there has been cut away.

On the gulf coast, the cities increased amazingly.

New Orleans remained the South's largest city. Shreveport climbed to 76,207, an increase of 74 per cent. Baton Rouge, Monroe, Lake Charles and Alexandria also grew.

Arkansas turned in Little Rock with an increase of 28.1 per cent and a population of 81,624. Texarkana, Pine Bluff, Fort Smith and Eldorado, in the same State, showed big gains.

Texas and Florida.

However, it was Texas and Florida that returned the big increases. The Lone Star State has Houston with an increase of 110.3 and a population of 290,811; Dallas with 260,397, or an increase of 63.8, and Fort Worth, San Antonio and El Paso, all with big increases. Besides these big cities, Texas furnished Waco with 52,825, an increase of 37.2; Galveston with 51,939, and Austin with 51,435.

Florida has three cities more than 100,000—Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami. Its middling cities like St. Petersburg, Orlando, Palm Beach and Pensacola, have grown amazingly. Every section of the State reported big increases, including even the rural sections. Among the cities to double their population besides Houston, Tex., and Jackson, Miss., are Greensboro and Durham, N. C. The former climbed to 53,422, an increase of 168.9 per cent, while the latter grew to 52,026, an increase of 139 per cent. St. Petersburg, Fla., increase was 92.6 per cent.

MAN ROBBED, HELD PRISONER IN AUTO

A. J. Slaughter Says Lone Thief Made Him Drive for Three Hours.

$980 IS REPORTED TAKEN

A. J. Slaughter, an employe of the National Oil Co., of 30uth Washington, Va., was kidnapped yesterday by a highwayman and forced to drive him for three hours after the man had robbed him of $980 in cash and checks, according to a report made to Alexandria police.

Slaughter was en route to an Alexandria bank with the money, he told police. At Cameron and Washington streets he slowed down to turn into Washington street, he said, when a shabbily dressed man jumped into his automobile and pressed a gun against his ribs.

Ordered to Be Silent.

Slaughter said the man ordered him to be silent and directed him to drive through the countryside finally halting him on the Fairfax Highway, near Annandale. At this point, Slaughter said, the man took the money and checks and disappeared into the bushes on the side of the road.

Slaughter told the police that the hold-up occurred a few minutes before noon. He appeared at 3 o'clock at Alexandria police headquarters and told the story of the hold-up.

Officers accompanied him in automobiles through the route which he said he had taken, but failed to find any trace of the hold-up man.

$480 of Loot in Cash.

Slaughter said that $480 of the loot was in cash and $500 in checks. Alexandria police tried to locate witnesses of the hold-up, but were unsuccessful. The scene of the reported hold-up is a block from King street, the city's main thoroughfare, and is usually busy at that hour.

Slaughter gave no specific description of the hold-up man, except to say that he was shabbily dressed, according to police. Slaughter lives at 2020 King street, Alexandria.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DAILY

LUELLA was deluged with wedding invitations.

"So, this is June," she mused, scanning the envelope.

"Yep, the month of orange blossoms and wedding marches."

She paused, pondered the engraved pages.

"It means we'll have to purchase a lot of presents," she stated, pursing her lips.

"If you'll pardon me," I said, slyly, "what are we going to use for money——?"

"That is a thought," she said, "I had almost forgotten——"

* * * *

ME? How could I forget? While Luella fingered the wedding invitations, I started collecting the monthly bills—a whole sheaf of them.

"What you'd better do," I suggested, "is go through some of the family silver, sift out the duplicates we got for presents, and——"

"Oh, dear, oh, dear!" she sighed, "I'm afraid we haven't anything left——"

"No?"

"We gave away most of that stuff last June."

"So we did."

"Well, I'll tell you what we'll do——"

"What?"

"WE'LL just ignore these invitations."

"But, Luella, we can't do that. Here they are, staring us in the face, and——"

She thought a while.

"We could take our vacation now, and——"

"What good would that do, so far as these wedding presents are concerned?"

Her eyes sparkled: "We could send some picture postcards to the brides-to-be; they'd know we were out-a town, and——"

"And when we got back we'd have to send the presents, anyway. These invitations——"

* * * *

SHE smiled: "That gives us time, to save."

"To save what? On vacation?"

"Of course, it depends on where we go——"

"No matter where we go, we'll have nothing when we get back. That's one of the laws in America."

She was at her wit's end.

"In that case," she said, "I'll have to polish up some of the salt and pepper sets. They always come in handy, for wedding presents."

Sure enough, out they went, in nicely trimmed little boxes, and at supper we had to use the old kitchen ware.

June brides must be recognized.

FIRE VICTIMS' RITES WILL BE TOMORROW

Mrs. William Moxley, Five Children to Be Buried at Damascus, Md.

MANY TO SEE SERVICES

Side by side in the peaceful little graveyard at Damascus, Md., the charred bodies of a mother and her five children will be laid to rest tomorrow, bringing to a close the next-to-last chapter in the tragedy of the fire that destroyed the modest home of William Moxley at Glen Echo early Sunday.

But although finis has been written to the book of life for Mrs. Katie Moxley and her babies, the story of the catastrophe is not yet ended, for William Moxley, himself seriously injured and severely burned, now must carry on alone, with nothing left but memories.

There will be many mourners gathered in Montgomery chapel when the funeral rites are read at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, for not only is the Moxley family ubiquitous throughout Maryland and the District, but many sincere friends are planning also to journey to Damascus to pay their last respects to the memories of the victims of the catastrophe.

Tragedy of Sunday.

After finishing his work as deputy marshal of the town of Glen Echo about midnight Saturday, William Moxley returned to his home adjoining Glen Echo Park, where he partook of a slight repast and chatted a moment with his family before retiring to catch a few hours of sleep before arising at 4 o'clock to begin his other job as cleaner at the big amusement park.

It was about 2 o'clock Sunday morning that he was awakened to find their home a blazing inferno. Although all clews were lost in the fire that reduced the house to a sodden heap of black ashes, the theory most generally accepted is that Mrs. Moxley had failed to disconnect properly an electric iron with which she had been pressing the children's dresses for Sunday school.

Hastily arousing his family, Moxley, who lost one arm in a planing mill accident fifteen years ago, broke the glass in the bedroom window, and after instructing his wife to toss their children down to him and then follow herself, jumped to the lawn below.

Will Resume Duties.

That was the last he saw of any member of his family alive. When they did not jump, he strove in vain to regain entrance to the house, but was beaten back by the fury of the flames. When firemen finally penetrated to the interior of the dwelling, they found Mrs. Moxley in the ruins of the bedroom, her head resting on the window sill and her two youngest children clasped tightly in her arms, while the three older children were found in the ruins of the rear room, the floor of which had collapsed under them.

Moxley was taken to Georgetown Hospital, where he was treated for bad burns and a deep gash in his arm, suffered when he smashed the window pane. Early Sunday he left the hospital and returned to the ruins of his home, but after a few minutes he complied with the insistent demands for his brother, Joe Moxley, keeper of the Montgomery County Jail, and accompanied him to Rockville, later going to the home of another brother, Howard C. Moxley, at Claggettsville, Md. He plans to remain there for about a week, then return to resume his work at Glen Echo.

The Rev. M. M. Perkins, secretary to the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, and the Rev. Mr. Bryan, rector of Montgomery Chapel at Damascus, will officiate at the services tomorrow.

After having been closed all day Sunday and Sunday night on account of the fire tragedy, the management of Glen Echo Park reopened the grounds to the public last night. More than the usual throngs attended the park yesterday and last evening, due largely to the warm weather.

Sympathy Denied Him, Man Gets His Leg Back

After parking his artificial left leg in Alexandria for a fortnight, Elijah Lee, 35-year-old textile worker, of Burlington, N. C., reclaimed it last night and is now on his way home. Police found the leg on the Potomac yard bridge with a note attached asking that it be undisturbed. Nevertheless, they took it to the station.

Lee said that he had come to Washington in search of employment. Thinking that he would incite sympathy by being on crutches, he discarded the leg temporarily while he went to the Capital and to Philadelphia. He didn't get a job, however.

The original plan of the committee, which included City Manager Wallace Lawrence, City Engineer E. C. Dunn, Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., and Postmaster F. Clinton Knight, was to number the streets running east and west in Rosemont, doing away with the names these streets have borne, some of them for twenty years or more. It is understood this change was favored by the Postoffice Department in Washington, as it would facilitate the delivery of mail. The residents of the affected territory, however, objected strenuously, claiming that
